

The resources and structure to provide a personalized leadership coaching program for Zhang Wei

A key message for Zhang Wei

Many people talk about investing in themselves, you are doing it – congratulations!

CONTENTS

Section 1: Introduction	6
About this Companion and Your Coaching Relationship	7
Understanding REACH – Awareness, Strengths, Agility & Skills	9
Section 2: Setting The Scene	11
Program Structure	12
Preparation	14
Understanding your coachee - Zhang Wei	17
Section 3: The Coaching Program	19
Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me	20
Module 1 - Laying the foundations	20
Module 1: Laying the foundations (week 1)	21
Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me	27
Module 2: Personality Dimensions (weeks 2 and 3)	27
Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me	31
Module 3: Spheres of Influence and Recognizing Strengths (weeks 4 & 5)	31
Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me	40
Module 4: Cultivating a Growth Mindset (weeks 6-9)	40
Cluster 2: Developing my REACH	51
Module 5: Development Targets (weeks 10-12)	51
Cluster 2: Developing my REACH	60
Module 6: Practicing REACH (weeks 13-16)	60
Cluster 2: Developing my REACH	66
Module 7: Expanding REACH (weeks 17-19)	66
Grow your coachee’s ability to REACH into ‘Counselor’	69
Grow your coachee’s ability to REACH into ‘Coach’	87
Grow your coachee’s ability to REACH into ‘Advisor’	104
Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others	119
Module 8: Facilitating REACH (weeks 20-21)	119
Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others	125
Module 9: Creating a REACH Culture	125
Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others	133
Module 10: Multiplying REACH (weeks 24-25)	133
REACH Growth Progress Check-in	134
Appendices	136
Appendix A: GROW Model	136
Appendix B: Sphere of Influence	138
Appendix C: Character Strengths	139
Appendix D: Johari Window template	141
References	142

Terminology Note: ‘Coachee’

This Coaches Companion is used by the person in the coach role in a coaching relationship. It is used by professional coaches and in coaching relationships between colleagues within the same organization.

The most common term for a person being coached is a “coachee” and this is the term we use throughout this companion.

Section 1: Introduction

Section 1: Introduction

About this Companion and Your Coaching Relationship

This Coaches Companion provides you as the coach, with everything you need to guide your coachee through a step-by-step, personalized, professional, coaching and development program to strengthen their REACH and help them grow as a person and as a leader.

This 'Coache's Companion' is best described as the equivalent of a 'Trainer's Guide' or 'Teacher's Notes', however it is designed to support a coaching relationship rather than a training course.

This is a best-practice coaching relationship based on the GROW model, with the added benefit of focusing on growing the 'REACH' of the coachee which gives the relationship structure and the added benefit of making the coaching relationship measurable.

What does all this mean?

In this coaching relationship you will be provided with the tools, insights, resources and structure to help your coachee grow, and conclude the program by showing them how they have grown.

A measurable, structured coaching relationship

This coaching program follows a best-practice approach to coaching. It is based on the GROW model and sets up coaching questions and dynamic coaching process in its traditional form and encourages powerful personal growth opportunities through practice, reflection and journaling.

In addition, it provides the coachee and the coach an additional set of tools, and the simple yet powerful REACH construct to give focus, targeted development, resources and the ability to measure the individuals growth.

What is REACH, and what are we measuring?

REACH is the measure of a person's agility to adapt to different people, tasks, and situations.

By growing people's REACH you are growing their awareness of 'self' and 'others', together with the development of skills to draw on to be more effective in different situations and positively influencing other people.

This combination of awareness and development of transferrable skills is proven to help people improve performance in their current role, future roles, and to become more effective leaders.

Global studies have demonstrated that:

- Individuals with greater REACH exhibit higher Emotional Intelligence.
- Managers with greater REACH enjoy higher engagement among their direct reports.
- Team leaders with greater REACH receive higher performance appraisal ratings from their managers.
- Supervisors with greater REACH devote more time to employee coaching.
- Sales professionals with greater REACH close more sales.

In short, growing REACH develops transferrable skills, and improves performance now and in the future.

Understanding REACH – Awareness, Strengths, Agility & Skills

Part 1: Awareness, Strengths and Current Agility (REACH)

A visual of the coachees personal style and current REACH (shown as the shaded area). This represents natural tendencies and area of agility. Provides the basis for awareness and opportunity to grow.

Counselor Profile

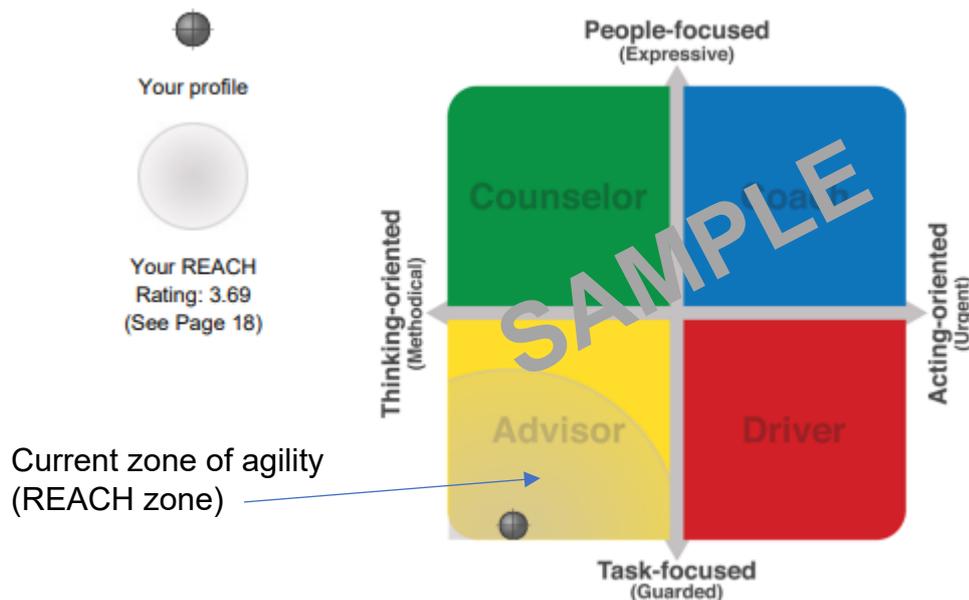

Counselors are best recognized for being: Thinking-oriented and People-focused. The key “markers” or behaviors of the Counselor Profile include:

- Communicating with a warm, comforting style
- Conflict-handling by accommodating others’ views
- Delegating by “asking” others for participation
- Planning through a careful, flexible approach
- Learning with careful, step-by-step reflection

Coach Profile

Coaches are best recognized for being: Acting-oriented and People-focused. The key “markers” or behaviours of the Coach Profile include:

- Communicating with charisma, dynamic style
- Conflict-handling by collaborating on solutions
- Delegating by “selling” others on participation
- Planning through a fluid, interactive approach
- Learning with active, “big picture” understanding

Advisor Profile

Advisors are best recognized for being: Thinking-oriented and Task-focused. The key “markers” or behaviours of the Advisor Profile include:

- Communicating with a reserved, formal style
- Conflict-handling by identifying compromises
- Delegating by “teaching” the suggested approach
- Planning through methodical, detailed preparation
- Learning with careful, step-by-step reflection

Driver Profile

Drivers are best recognized for being: Acting-oriented and Task-focused. The key “markers” or behaviours of the Driver Profile include:

- Communicating with a focused, intense style
- Conflict-handling by directly confronting the issue
- Delegating by “directing” the course of action
- Planning through an urgent, adaptive approach
- Learning with active, “big picture” understanding

Part 2: REACH Skills to grow agility (REACH)

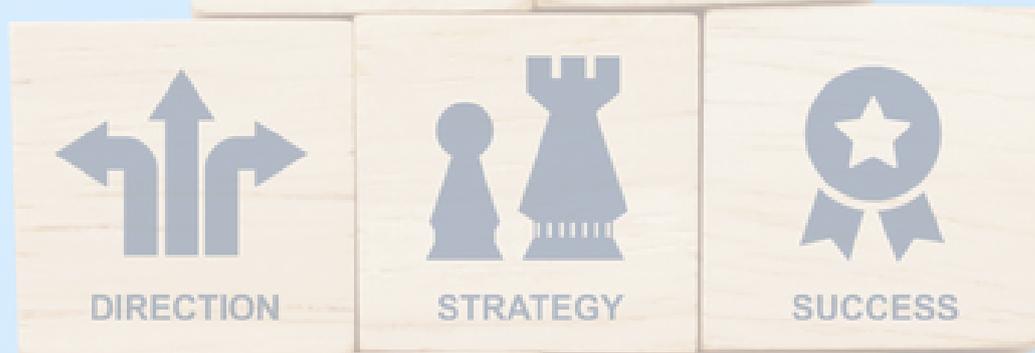

To develop REACH the report provides a table with 16 high-level skills, grouped in alignment with the individual's natural strengths and current adaptability.

As this coaching relationship unfolds, it will guide the coach to help develop the coachees awareness and skills, to grow their REACH zone.

REACH Skills

Section 2: Setting The Scene

Program Structure

The program is structured into three clusters of 10 modules.

The logic behind the structure is that one firstly needs to have a good understanding of themselves to identify their growth areas, and, then build skills and deepen their awareness of self and others while building skills and confidence

Recommended Timetable: 6-months

In this recommended structure you meet every 2nd week for 25 weeks. The following timeline represents a very thorough, six-month coaching relationship.

Cluster 1: Getting to know 'me'

This cluster develops an understanding of their own traits, strengths and tendencies.

Module 1: 1 session (week 1)

Module 2: 2 sessions (weeks 2 & 3)

Module 3: 2 sessions (weeks 4 & 5)

Module 4: 4 sessions (weeks 6 - 9)

Cluster 2: Developing my REACH

Module 5: 3 sessions (weeks 10-12)

Module 6: 4 sessions (weeks 13-16)

Module 7: 3 sessions (weeks 17-19)

Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others

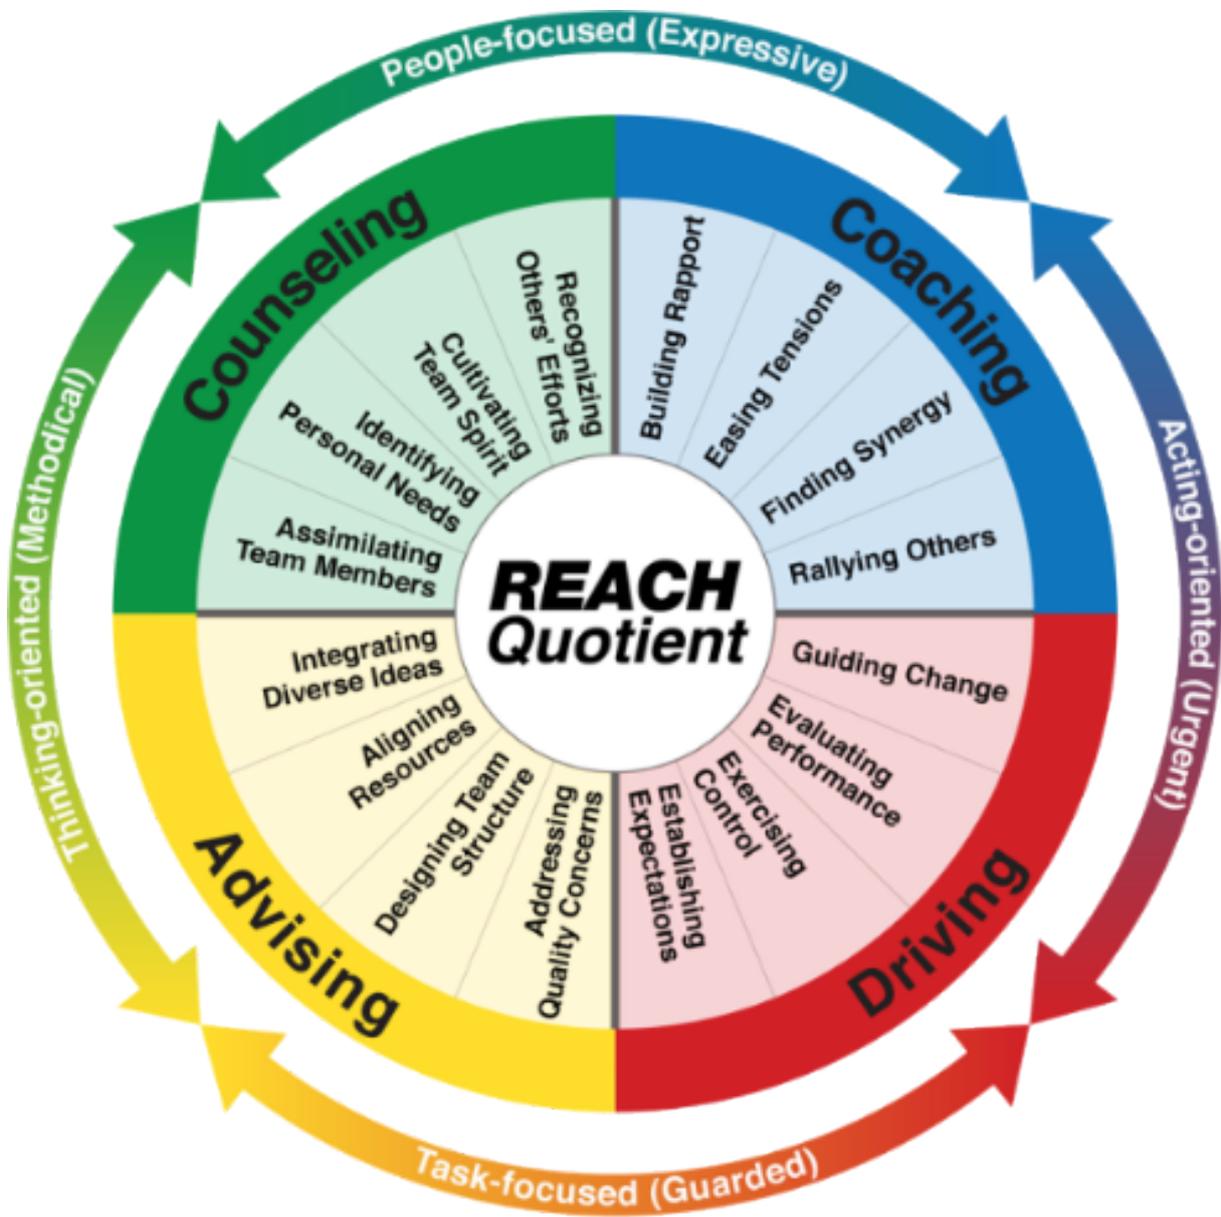

Module 8: 2 sessions (weeks 20 - 21)

Module 9: 2 sessions (weeks 22 - 23)

Module 10: 2 sessions (weeks 24 - 25)

Please adapt this to suit your needs and competing demands. Spend longer on modules if there is value and shorten others. This is your coaching relationship, let the program give you guidance, but keep it real and personal.

Remember: However you choose to adapt this structure, be sure to commit to mutual expectations and understanding.

Preparation

Before you begin, please ensure you have reviewed your coachee's Leading Profile before you meet. Be sure to review their particularly strong traits, and their REACH Skills.

You will use several different REACH reports + the REACH 360 during the program as outlined below.

Module 1	Kick off. Scene setting.	REACH Personal Style Profile
Module 2	Personality dimensions and unpacking the REACH profile	REACH Personal Style Profile
Module 3	Spheres of influence and recognizing strengths	REACH Leading Profile REACH Quotient
Module 4	Cultivating a growth mindset	REACH 360
Module 5	Development Targets	REACH 360 REACH Personal Style Profile
Module 6	Practicing REACH	REACH Communication Profile
Module 7	Expanding REACH	REACH360 REACH Quotient
Module 8	Facilitating REACH	REACH Communication Profile
Module 9	Creating a REACH Culture	REACH Culture survey
Module 10	Multiplying REACH

Journaling

Encourage your coachee to journal during this coaching program and ongoing.

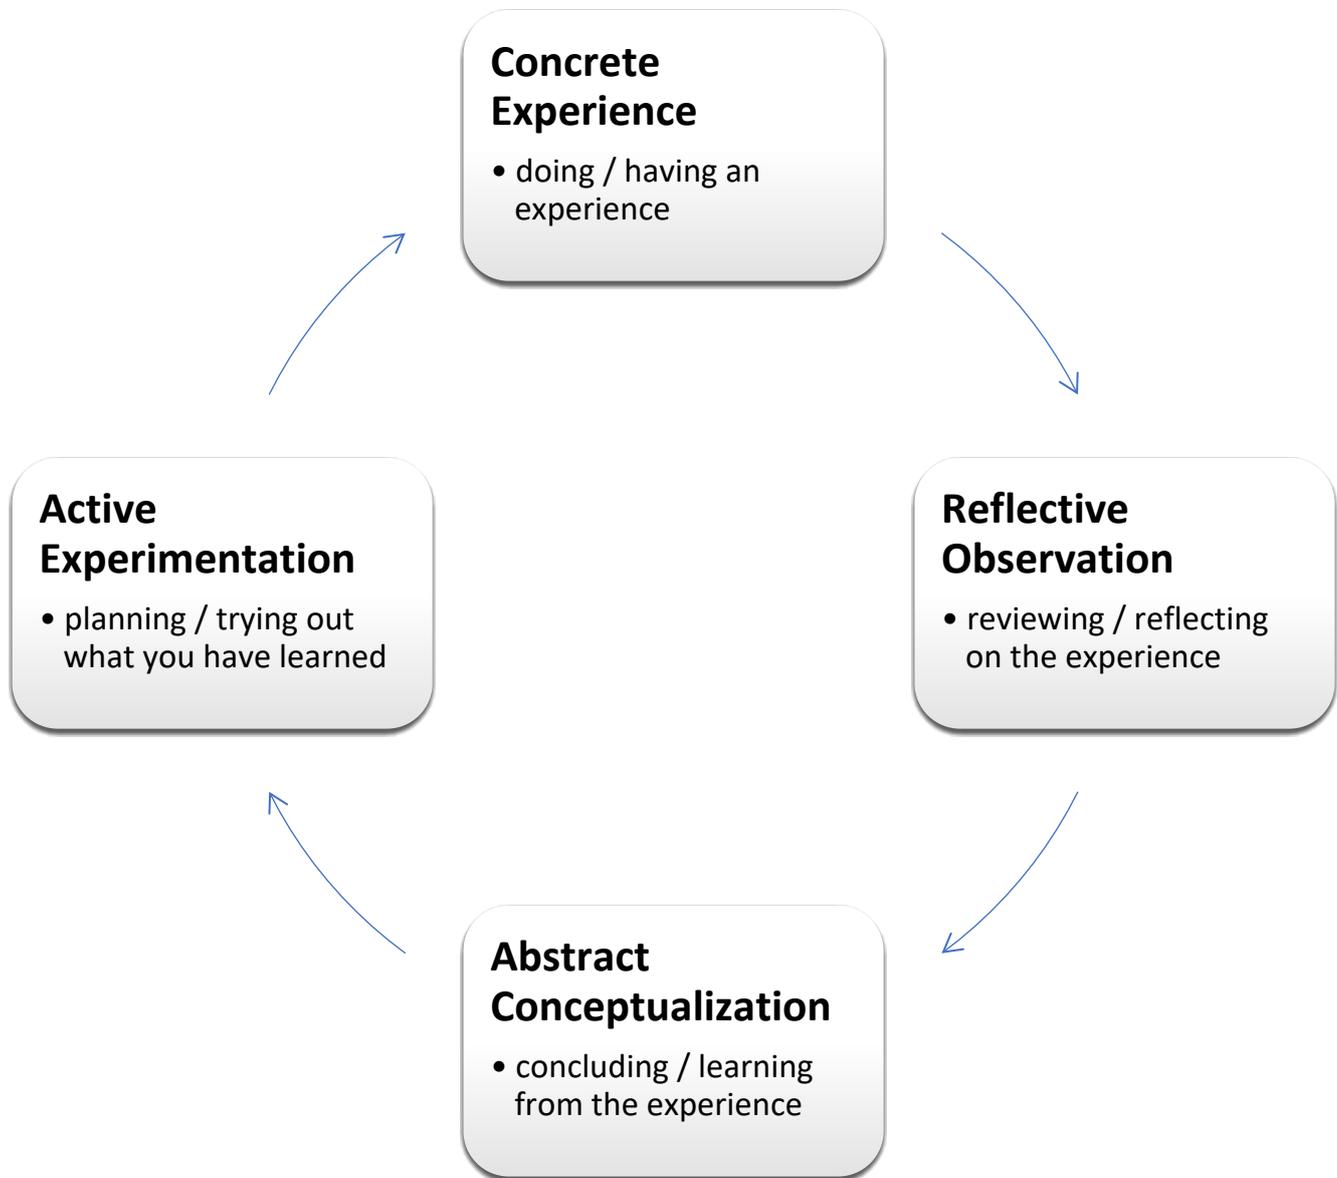

Pro Tip: Some great coaches order journals with their coachee's initials on the cover and help them develop the journaling habit from day one.

If your coachee is open to it, you will find a new dimension to your relationship and their growth develops more quickly.

The Power of Journaling

Journaling is a powerful aspect of learning and growing and can really accelerate Kolb's Learning Cycle as it provides people with the opportunity to think ahead, plan, reflect and grow.

Many people find it hard to develop the discipline to journal. Best practice is to make an entry every day (any length that feels right on the day from one word to a page or two while other people make entries once per week).

Understanding your coachee - Zhang Wei

While people's responses differ at times, Zhang's responses indicate they tend to exhibit Driver style markers most commonly.

The chart below shows Zhang's primary profile visually. It is a good time to reflect on the contrasting styles of all four profiles and begin thinking about adapting your style for the best outcome with Zhang.

Counselor Profile

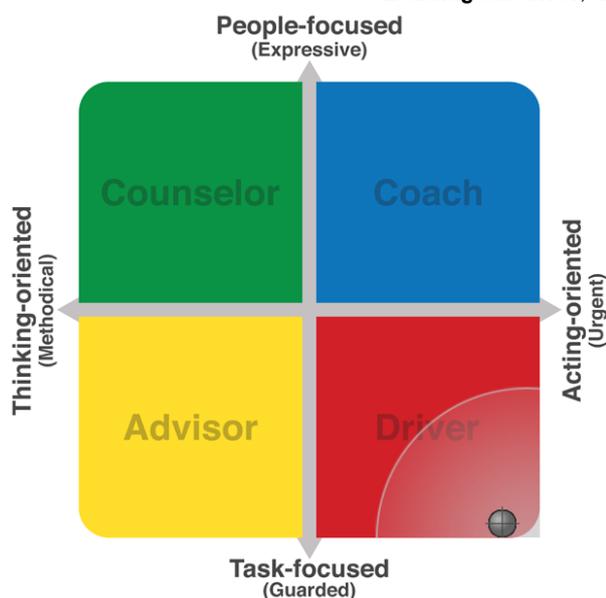

Counselors are best recognized for being: Thinking-oriented and People-focused. The key "markers" or behaviors of the Counselor Profile include:

- Communicating with a warm, comforting style
- Conflict-handling by accommodating others' views
- Delegating by "asking" others for participation
- Planning through a careful, flexible approach
- Learning with careful, step-by-step reflection

Coach Profile

Coaches are best recognized for being: Acting-oriented and People-focused. The key "markers" or behaviours of the Coach Profile include:

- Communicating with charisma, dynamic style
- Conflict-handling by collaborating on solutions
- Delegating by "selling" others on participation
- Planning through a fluid, interactive approach
- Learning with active, "big picture" understanding

Advisor Profile

Advisors are best recognized for being: Thinking-oriented and Task-focused. The key "markers" or behaviours of the Advisor Profile include:

- Communicating with a reserved, formal style
- Conflict-handling by identifying compromises
- Delegating by "teaching" the suggested approach
- Planning through methodical, detailed preparation
- Learning with careful, step-by-step reflection

Driver Profile

Drivers are best recognized for being: Acting-oriented and Task-focused. The key "markers" or behaviours of the Driver Profile include:

- Communicating with a focused, intense style
- Conflict-handling by directly confronting the issue
- Delegating by "directing" the course of action
- Planning through an urgent, adaptive approach
- Learning with active, "big picture" understanding

Your challenge as Coach – Be intentional about your approach with each session.

Prior to each session, consider your greeting, planning, activities, your questions and responses.

How are you going to use your reach to be purposefully adapting your natural style to give the best impact for Zhang?

Zhang is a Driver. To help REACH Zhang be intentional about your approach and maximise your time spent with them.

Try to:

- Focus on the bottom line
- Emphasize results
- Be clear and specific

Avoid:

- Forcing personal small talk
- Controlling the conversation
- Challenging their position

Section 3: The Coaching Program

Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me

Module 1 - Laying the foundations

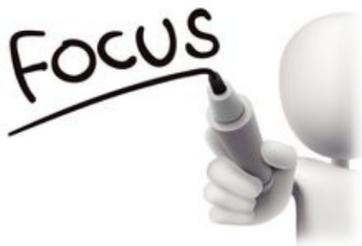

Module 1: Laying the foundations (week 1)

What You Will Need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- GROW handout
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

The following initial steps will help to launch the coaching relationship successfully, creating an environment of trust, openness and efficiency. Your focus in Module 1 is on:

- Gaining consensus on the ideal relationship between facilitator and coachee, emphasizing candour and confidentiality.
- Building rapport, seeking mutual and genuine comfort level in sharing insights, perspectives and experiences.
- Arranging the space to remove physical barriers; sitting in an open casual posture and making the setting comfortable and non-threatening. For example, face each other in two comfortable chairs in a casual setting – avoid sitting across a desk in office chairs, which can create imbalance and formality.
- Observing body language that demonstrates areas of tension, or repeated themes that may demonstrate hidden layers of concern. Address any such concerns early and candidly prior to moving from one module to the next.

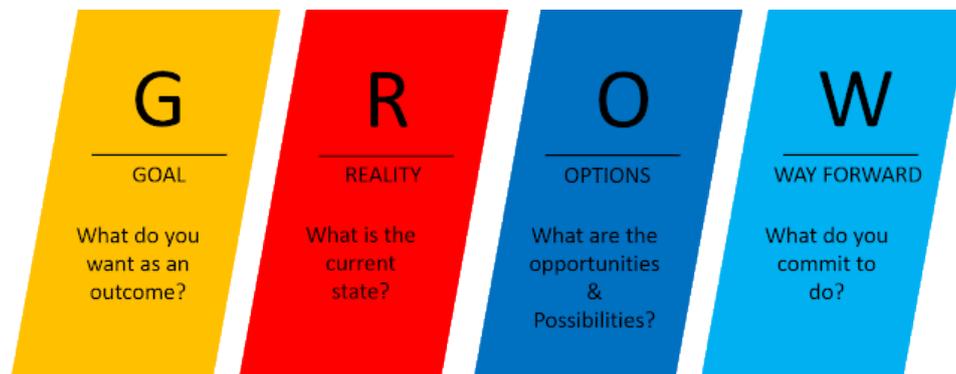

Part 1: Ground rules, trust and expectations.

During this conversation, address the following ‘basics’:

1. At the highest level, what does your coachee want in their role?
2. How can you, as facilitator, serve your coachee in becoming a stronger leader?
3. Clarify the coachee's expectations for the timing of the program.
4. Agree on a timeline for each module, including session times and venues.
5. Establish a communication plan for addressing questions, concerns and accountability between the sessions. For example, will you communicate via phone, email, or other medium?
6. Ask your coachee for any questions or concerns they may have before progressing in the module.

Part 2: Discussion (GROW)

The GROW model is a well-established approach to setting goals, solving problems and advancing one's potential within a training and development context. The model leverages four stages, with each focusing an essential aspect of personal and professional development.

Each module within the REACH Growth Program will be addressed using the GROW mindset. As such, each session should emphasize these four stages, encouraging the coachee to work continually from goal to the way forward.

G

During this initial session, use some of the following questions (or create some of your own) to address the Goals (G) for the REACH Growth Program. For each question, be sure to encourage further exploration using probing and follow up questions (see clarifying questions later in this section).

- What do you want to achieve through coaching?
- What is most important to you right now? How might this change considering future roles for which you may be preparing?
- In what aspect of your leadership do you feel most effective right now?
- What would you like to take away from this first session?
- What do you want to happen as a result of this session?
- What do you not expect to happen?

R

Next, discuss your coachee's current Reality (R). Consider using one or more of the following questions or create some of your own.

- How would you describe your current professional role?
- How does your role impact the workplace and/or organization?
- To what extent are your unique contributions recognized and/or valued?
- How would you describe your opportunity for advancement?
- How would you describe your skill as a leader?
- How are your ideas typically received?
- What is working well right now?
- Who are your biggest detractors?
- With whom do you tend to have the most frequent conflict?
- To what extent is any of this conflict constructive?
- To what extent is any of this conflict destructive?
- To what extent is any of this conflict personal?
- How is interpersonal conflict typically initiated?
- How is interpersonal conflict typically resolved?
- To what extent do you have access to the resources needed to perform your role most effectively?
- How would you describe the obstacles that keep you from performing at your best?
- How would you categorize such obstacles (such as according to personal, motivational, organizational, resources or outlook)?
- What might hold you back from becoming the best leader you could otherwise become?

O

Next, discuss the Options (O) that may prevent your coachee from accomplishing the goals described in the earlier portion of this discussion:

- What are your options?
- How have you tackled this or a similar situation before?
- What could you do differently?
- Who do you know who has encountered a similar situation?
- Give me five options!
- If anything was possible what would you do?
- What would your best friend /mother suggest?

W

Finally, discuss the way forward (W) with your coachee using the following questions or some of your own:

- Who are your biggest advocates?
- To whom can you go to for candid, constructive advice?
- Who might be able to provide accountability as you pursue your goals?
- What options are available to you in overcoming the obstacles discussed earlier?
- What more can you do that will help you move forward in your leadership role?
- What commitment are you willing to make (and to whom) in taking the next step in this program?

Clarifying Questions:

- So, can I just clarify, what you have said is....?
- Can you just tell me a bit more about....?
- If I have heard you correctly, you have...?
- Tell me more about what has shaped your perception of...?
- What might have worked better for you?
- What options do you have for moving forward?
- What else could you do?
- If anything was possible, what would be your ideal next step?
- If it was up to you, what would be the best-case scenario?
- How have you handled this successfully in the past?
- Who do you know who has been in a similar situation?
- How have other people you know handled similar situations?

Part 3: Wrap It Up

As you finish this initial session, please recap key observations and restate:

G: The primary Goal for this REACH Growth Program

R: Summarize the current Reality.

O: The main or most pressing Obstacle in completing the program.

W: The key focus of the Way forward

Make sure you have taken sufficient notes in order to follow up on items discussed as the program unfolds. Ask your coachee if they have any questions or concerns prior to concluding the session. It is essential that the facilitator and coachee are on the same page regarding expectations, limitations and timing, so make sure any concerns are addressed proactively in this initial session.

Part 4: Looking Ahead

Before concluding, agree to a date and time for your next session. Comment on the key elements of the upcoming Module 2, with its focus on promoting self-awareness.

Specifically, you will introduce your coachee to the REACH framework, while unpacking his or their REACH results.

Your coachee can look forward to discovering their primary Leading Profile in Module 3.

Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me

Module 2: Personality Dimensions (weeks 2 and 3)

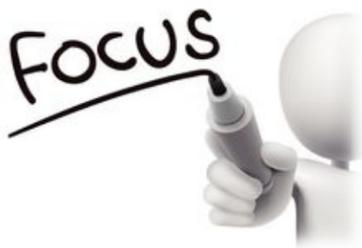

Module 2: Personality Dimensions (weeks 2 and 3)

What You Will Need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- GROW handout
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Personal Style Profile
- A printed, color copy of your own REACH Personal Style Profile
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

Your focus in Module 2 is on:

- Providing an understanding of the REACH Personal Style profile and the four personal styles – Counselor, Coach, Driver, Advisor
- Providing an understanding of the ACHieving and RELating dimensions
- Discuss the coaching points indicated in the report
- Revisit the goal from Module 1 considering the new information provided by the REACH profile

Part 1: Unpack the REACH Personal Style Profile

Introducing REACH, personality styles and build trust. We recommend asking your coachee to complete REACH prior to the engagement, so you can prepare.

It's useful to work through their profile with them.

It's vital that you explain to them that this is NOT an assessment, nor is it a value judgement of them; it is a description of their natural style and approach. They will develop an awareness of the strengths of their approach, the things they tend not to do, and how their default style affects people with other styles.

Be sure to focus on their strengths and discuss which areas feel 'spot on' and which areas they don't identify with.

As they grow their REACH, they'll find it easier to adapt their style to better connect and be understood by other people, and to make the most of their strengths and those of the people around them.

Many people find it very powerful to build trust, openness and respect (fundamentals of the coaching relationship) by working through your own REACH profile at the same time as you explore the coachee's. You can compare your profile with theirs, this helps make it clear one is not better or worse, it is simply a style, and awareness helps us grow and be more effective.

It is suggested you include in the exploration/discussion of the REACH Profile the following points:

- The profile matrix and the relative position of the coachee (and yourself) on the matrix.
- The relative position of the coachee's plot to the corners or the centre of the matrix and what this means:

The closer your plot is to any corner of the matrix, the more your profile will be similar to the profile shown in the respective quadrant. The farther away your plot is from any corner, the less likely your profile will reflect the profile indicated. The closer your plot is to the centre of the matrix, the more you may tend to exhibit characteristics of all four profiles. There will be occasions when you may exhibit characteristics of each profile, depending on the situation.

- Discuss the distinctive characteristics/Style Markers for the four profiles and people the coachee may recall who exhibits characteristics of these four markers.
- ACHieving and RELating dimensions and where the coachee exhibits a particular strength.

- The five key strengths indicated in the report.

Part 2: Review the Goal from Module 1

Work with the coachee to review the primary goal from Module 1

- How has the awareness of your personal style contributed to how you will achieve your goal?
- How has the awareness of your relational and achievement strengths contributed to how you will achieve your goal?
- How has the exploration of your Profile impacted the obstacles you identified in Module 1?
- Can you use the information you have learned today to redefine the goal from Module 1 to make it more explicit?
- Now revisit the GROW model considering this redefined goal to arrive at the next steps in the (W)rap up.

Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me

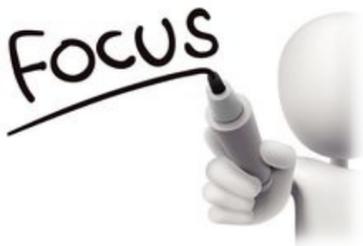

Module 3: Spheres of Influence and Recognizing Strengths (weeks 4 & 5)

Module 3: Spheres of Influence and Recognizing Strengths (weeks 4 & 5)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Personal Style Profile
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Leading Profile
- Sphere of Influence worksheet (Appendix B)
- Strengths Card pack (available from REACH Ecosystem and/or Strengths Character inventory (Appendix C)
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

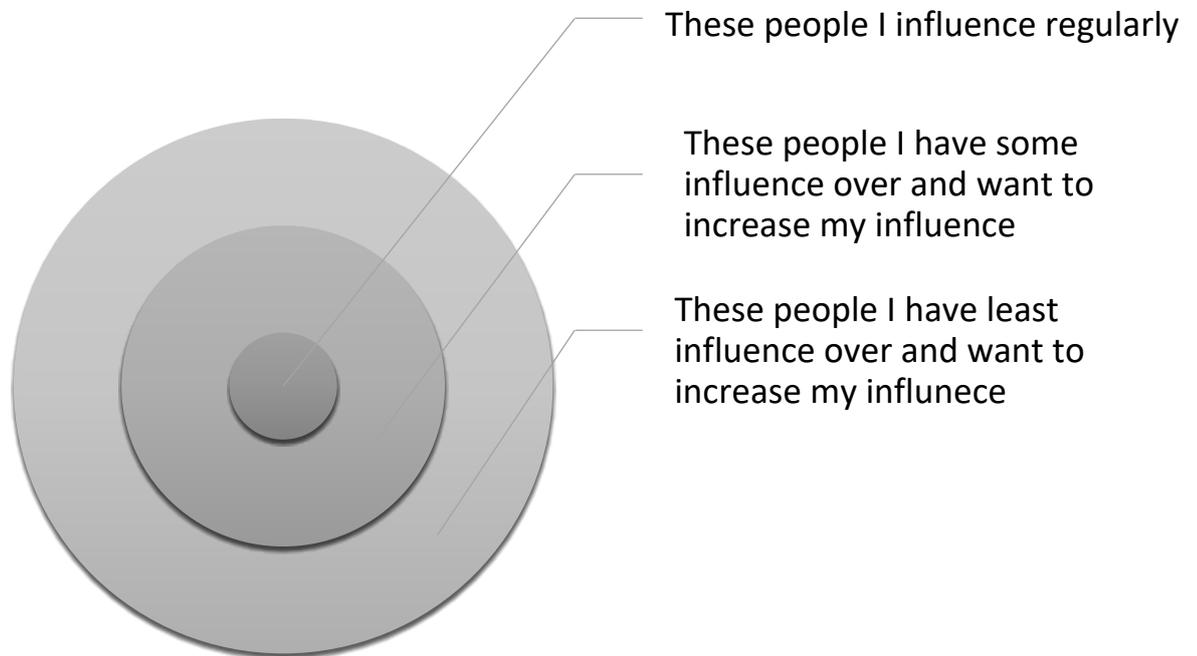

Your focus in Module 3 is on:

- Having the coachee understand who is in their sphere of influence and who isn't
- Recognizing strengths
- Exploring the coachee's REACH Leading Profile and REACH Quotient and making the link between growing one's REACH and increasing one's influence
- Revisiting the GROW model considering any new information

Part 1: My sphere of influence

Use the Influence Worksheets in Appendix B or create your own in a larger format according to the following principle:

Invite the coachee to write down the names of people in each section of the diagram.

Say to the coachee that we will revisit this diagram shortly, but first we need some other information to add to the mix.

Part 2: My strengths

The REACH Personal Style Profile highlights the relational and achievement strengths of the coachee. It is suggested that an additional activity is used to identify further strengths for the coachee.

Here are two ways you can work with your coachee to identify strengths.

1. Strengths Poker

In this game, we play a 3-4 round game of modified poker, however, there's no betting and no winner. Here are the rest of the suggested rules for a 2-player game:

- Deal 9 cards per person, place one card face down in the middle of the table.
- Each player needs to take some time to read the 9 cards, and pick their top 5. They can discard the other 4 on the table face-up, or if they recognize one as being a strength they see in the other player, they can offer it to them, saying something like – “this reminds me of you”.
- Players get an opportunity to review the discarded cards, and see if there is any they want to pick up.
- Deal again by placing 1 card face up and dealing each player with another 3-cards.
- Go through the same process, of selecting the cards that resonate with you most, each player can use the additional card that has been placed face up, and players can ‘trade’ strengths each round.
- You want to end with 3 final cards that resonate with you most.
- Repeat this deal, review and trade/offer strengths to the other player for 3 rounds of card dealing.
- Make sure each player gets to their final 3 cards.
- At the end, each player reads out their final 3 core strengths and explains why they selected them, and even why they retained their final 3 over some of their shortlisted cards.

It's a great idea to ask your coachee to take a photo of their final 3 cards so they are all readable and fanned out, then set the picture as their phone, tablet or PC lock screen or wallpaper.

You can order these cards from the REACH Ecosystem website, or contact your REACH Partner.

2. Character Strengths Inventory

An alternative or adjunct to Strengths Poker is the Character Strengths inventory in Appendix C. These strengths were originally developed through the work of Peterson and Seligman (2004).

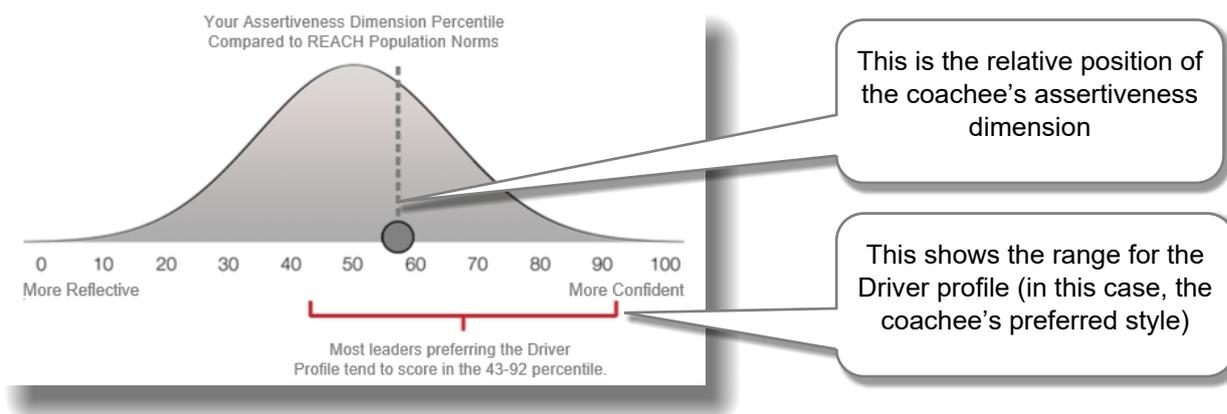

Part 3: Leading Profile

Now is a good time to review with the coachee, their Leading Profile. The detail in the report shows for each achieving and relating dimension where the coachee sits, relative to most people, with the same preferred style as the coachee. It also shows whether certain dimensions make REACH skills more or less comfortable. Competencies are influenced by leading dimensions.

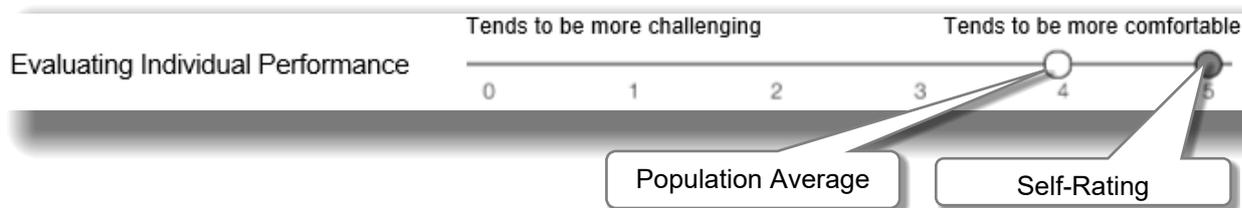

Examples are given below.

The image below shows the Assertiveness dimension for a coachee.

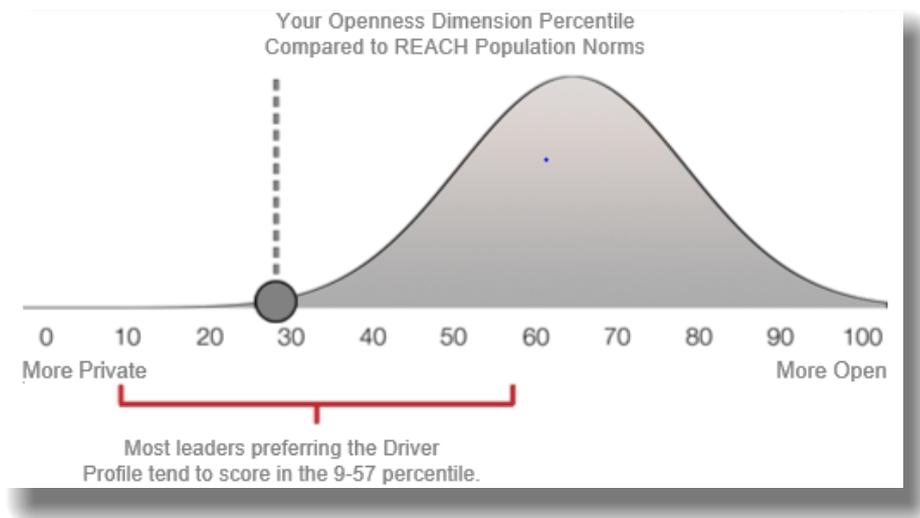

In the example above, the coachee is well within the range for assertiveness for a Driver.

The coachee now gets insight on how their level of assertiveness is related to the competency of Evaluating Individual Performance:

The example above shows that the coachee has self-rated above the population average and is very comfortable with conducting performance evaluations. This makes sense because the coachee has also rated above average on assertiveness – a competency that will be desirable when evaluating another's performance.

Consider another example. The image below shows the openness dimension for a coachee.

You can see that the coachee is at the 'more private' end of the continuum. The coachee is also well within the range for the Driver profile.

The coachee now gets insights on how their level of openness is related to the competency of Building Rapport. The coachee's self-score for 'Building Rapport' is now compared to the population average.

The example shows that the coachee is less comfortable and will have more of a challenge with establishing rapport than the population average. This not surprising given that the coachee prefers to be more private than open.

This report contains a good deal of insightful information for your coachee, further highlighting their relative strengths and opportunities for growth.

Part 4: Strengths and Influence

As mentioned in the introduction, each coach relationship is different, and each person's needs are unique, so if your coachee has some specific areas they want to work on, stick with those in the time you have; their goals and current needs always come first.

In every session it is important to maintain a growth focus on the specific challenges and opportunities your coachee has identified as you work through the GROW model, and work through the next steps by identifying anything new that has arisen during the time since the last session.

Review how strengths are related to influence

Leaders succeed by getting things done and with other people. Influence is the ability to persuade others to do things. One's ability to influence is related to the strengths of an individual and the extent to which exercising those strengths persuades others. Because we are all different, we will be persuaded in different ways. Growing a coachee's REACH through developing their strengths will give your coachee a greater range of persuasive ability.

It is suggested that you share with your coachee the six principles of influencing put forward by Robert Cialdini in the 1980's and discuss how each of these may be related to the REACH Competencies (some suggestions in the following table).

Influencing Principle	What it means in practice – why it creates influence	REACH Competencies
Reciprocation	Think of this as “You scratch my back; I’ll scratch yours.” If you do something nice for someone, they’ll do something nice for you	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Finding opportunities for synergy • Recognizing other’s efforts
Scarcity	If it is scarce, we want more	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identifying personal needs • Aligning resources with needs
Consistency and Commitment	People who make commitments tend to follow through with those commitments. They have decided, through consistency, that a certain action coheres with who they believe themselves to be. Thus, they make commitments. You cannot get people to commit to you or your vision if they don’t see your commitment.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Recognizing other’s efforts • Setting clear expectations • Controlling processes • Addressing quality concerns • Finding opportunities for synergy
Authority	Whether for good or ill, authority figures wield enormous influence. If people believe you know what you are talking about and accept your expertise, they are far more likely to follow you. Influence by authority is an incredible source of power.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Establishing clear expectations • Evaluating individual performance • Exercising control over team processes • Designing team structure/function
Social Validation - Consensus	“Monkey see, Monkey do” As independent as we like to consider ourselves, we love to be part of a crowd. It will always be a part of us, that school age desire to be accepted, no matter how many times our parents tell us, “If everyone jumped off a cliff, would you join them?” People will always jump on a bandwagon if their friends like the band.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Assimilating team members • Building rapport • Easing tensions during conflict • Rallying others around a cause • Integrating diverse perspectives
Friendship and Liking	Likability is a huge form of influence. Successful salespeople are those who are likeable. They smile. They say nice things. They establish likeability in order to get the sale. People listen to their friends. If they know you and like you, they are far more likely to support you.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cultivating team spirit • Building rapport • Easing tension during conflict

Review the strengths to develop to increase influence

Review the sphere of influence worksheet from Part 1. Work with the coachee to determine how they believe they could exert greater influence over some of the key people they identified. Discuss what strengths could be developed to enable this.

Recommendation: Pick up to 2 x Strengths or Gaps as the focus and create action plans with them.

Section 3: Achieving Dimensions

Achieving Dimensions describe how individuals approach tasks and goals under normal circumstances.

Intensity (One of your Key Strengths – see page 7 for specific Coaching Points)

✓ This dimension describes how you pursue goals, whether for personal or work initiatives. While some prefer to work at a steady, balanced pace, others show an intense, urgent pace. Most of us tend to fluctuate between a measured and intense focus at times.

Measured ————— Intense

You tend to function with more urgency than others, and you may be more comfortable under pressure. You tend to dislike slow or repetitive processes, so you may appear impatient at times.

Assertiveness (One of your Key Strengths – see page 7 for specific Coaching Points)

✓ This dimension describes how you assert your viewpoint. Some tend to be very quick to assert their opinions and may aspire to lead others. Others tend to be more reserved and defer opportunities to offer their opinion. Most of us seem to dislike public speaking but will assert ourselves when needed.

Reflective ————— Confident

You are probably more comfortable following direction than giving orders, and you may be reluctant to question or challenge others at times. You are more likely to think through what you are going to say before approaching others.

Risk Tolerance (One of your Key Strengths – see page 7 for specific Coaching Points)

✓ This dimension describes how you approach uncertain or risky situations. Some people seem to be natural risk takers, while others tend to be more cautious and careful. Most of us tend to fluctuate between avoiding and taking risks, depending on the situation.

Cautious ————— Bold

You prefer safety and security rather than the risk of trying unproven ideas. Others count on your careful demeanor in high-stakes situations, as you prefer proven approaches over trial and error.

Adaptability

This dimension describes how you navigate change. While some prefer stability and a predictable environment, others enjoy frequent change and lots of variety. For the most part, we tend to display both reluctance and flexibility at times, depending on the significance of the change.

Consistent ————— Flexible

You tend to be most comfortable where there is structure and stability, and you don't seek change just for the sake of variety. If change is forced on you, especially in a hurry, you can become stressed.

Decision-making

This dimension describes how we learn and process information in making decisions. Some tend to rely on their intuition and experience, while others rely on a more analytical approach. Most of us tend to balance both perceptive and analytical approaches to some degree in making decisions.

Analytical ————— Intuitive

You place a great deal of importance on precision and accuracy, and you are more comfortable relying on careful analysis than going with your gut instinct. Compared to others, you are more organized and detailed in solving problems.

Section 4: Coaching Points

The following characteristics represent five key strengths that have emerged from the dimensions highlighted in your Personal Style Profile. These strengths are those which are likely most evident in your response to goals and relationships. Since each strength can present a unique challenge if underutilized or taken too far, specific developmental points are provided as well.

Objective (Consideration)

✓ Key Strength: You tend to remain objective where others may become emotionally involved in making decisions or solving problems. Others can rely on you for an impartial perspective. Your objectivity can provide great balance in approaching complex problems and your desire to stay on task can keep the team moving along.

⚠ Development Target: At times your approach may be viewed as cold or harsh by more sensitive team members. Take care to soften your comments as you stay on message.

Consistent (Adaptability)

✓ Key Strength: You provide a steady and reliable perspective. You are not easily caught up in fads or hype, and you require justification before an unproven approach is considered. You provide a consistent and predictable approach to issues that face the team. Others can count on you for dependability.

⚠ Development Target: While your reliability can be constructive, be careful not to dig in your heels to resist change unnecessarily.

Private (Openness)

✓ Key Strength: You carefully control your emotions and you rarely discuss personal matters. You don't intrude into other's personal lives and can be counted on to protect confidentiality. Where others may rely on small talk and bonding activities to keep their interest, you are more likely to stay focused on the task at hand.

⚠ Development Target: At times your approach may cause distance between you and your peers. You might miss out on opportunities to build effective working relationships.

Analytical (Decision-making)

✓ Key Strength: You carefully evaluate details and are not easily swayed by emotion or gut instinct. Others can count on you for your analytical perspective and methodical approach. Your eye for detail and propensity for analysis provide a great check and balance for the team's decision-making.

⚠ Development Target: Watch out for 'analysis paralysis' which may cause you to undervalue the benefit of gut instinct and experience.

Independent (Affiliation)

✓ Key Strength: You work well as an individual and you don't seek much support in getting things done. Others can rely on you to do your part, without needing their guidance. You are not afraid to ask the tough questions, and your independent approach will help the team to avoid the perils of groupthink.

⚠ Development Target: At times others may perceive your preference for independence as a need to control the team or to go your own way.

If the action plans include workshops or formal training, as a REACH Subscriber you have several options.

1. You can leverage the REACH Course Materials you have as part of the subscription and either:
 - a) Pick some activities from the relevant courses to run together in a private coaching style session with your coachee.
 - b) If you are a facilitator as well as a coach, you may have the opportunity to run a session for a group of staff in your coachee's workplace on a relevant topic (such as team building, negotiation skills, customer service, communications, conflict resolution or other relevant topics depending on the needs).
 - c) Hire an external facilitator or if your coachee's workplace has internal trainers, provide them with the training materials to run a session internally.
2. Go to an external training provider, such as global partner PDT, that uses the same frameworks and training materials and have one of their facilitators run a session internally.

Whichever approach you use, you have access to world-class training materials that are built around the same REACH frameworks that will give you targeted solutions to help your coachee grow their skills.

Cluster 1 Getting to Know Me

Module 4: Cultivating a Growth Mindset (weeks 6-9)

Module 4: Cultivating a Growth Mindset (weeks 6-9)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH360 Feedback Report
- Copy of the Johari Window worksheet (Appendix D)
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

Your focus in Module 4 is on:

- Having the coachee understand the concept of a growth mindset and look at inhibitors to this
- Exploring the application of the Johari Window tool
- Exploring the coachee's REACH360 feedback report
- Revisiting the GROW model considering any new information

Part 1: The concept of a Growth mindset.

This module uses the results of REACH360 to identify areas for growth. The coachee needs to be on board with the idea that a growth, as opposed to a fixed, mindset is the best way of mentally approaching the task of growing their REACH.

You can frame the discussion of what a growth mindset is by drawing on the research of Carol Dweck.

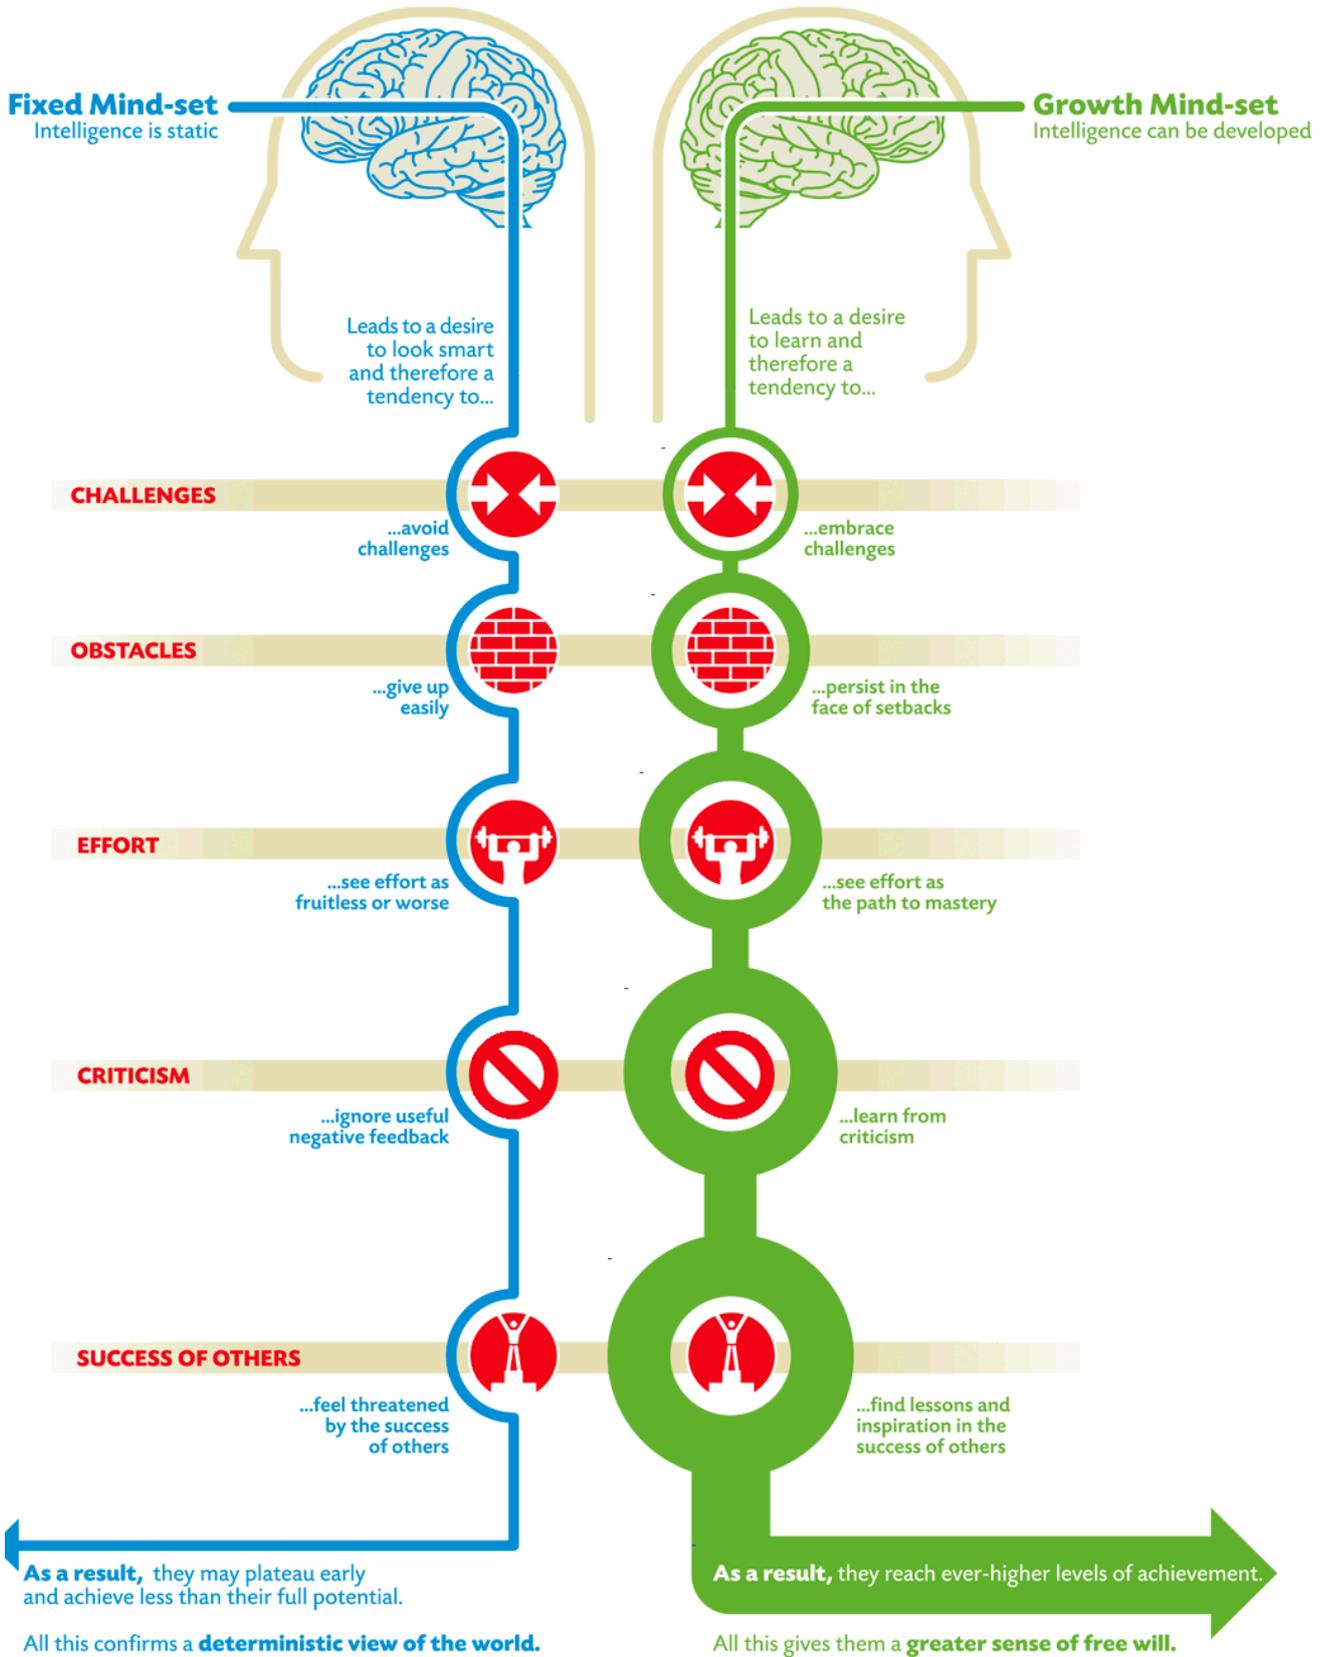

The model on the next page provides a summary of fixed vs growth mindsets.

The concept of resilience is also inextricably linked to a growth mindset:

- Embrace challenge
- Persist in the face of setbacks
- See effort as the path to mastery
- Learn from criticism

You may also like to play the following video.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hiiEeMN7vbQ>

Part 2: Where to grow for maximum positive influence on others at work.

People looking to increase their effectiveness in Supervisory Roles and above have a Growth Mindset, that is a mindset oriented around learning and growing. A simple way of framing the difference, is the language of a person that says “I am no good at that” (fixed mindset) vs “I am not good at that yet” (a growth mindset actively aiming to improve and take the next step).

Most people that seek coaching are in a growth mindset, so if your coachee is in a supervisory role (or above) and is already open to learning to maximize their positive impact, this is a great time to introduce the REACH360.

This is a tool that provides people with feedback about their strengths and opportunities to grow from people around them. Generally, seek input from 8-16 people that are a mix of direct reports, peers, their managers and ideally suppliers or other people that are impacted by their conduct as a leader.

Using the REACH360 is simple, your coachee will have already completed their self-rating, so it's just a matter of identifying the additional raters and sending them a feedback request link by email. The REACH360 only takes raters about 5-minutes and involves 16 simple questions.

You will be best to frame this activity in one session and debrief in the next.

It's important to reiterate with your coachee that this can be a confronting activity, the opportunity is to learn from the perception of others, so you can adapt your approach, delegate certain functions you regularly don't focus on, or where to consciously change your habits or approach to have a more positive impact.

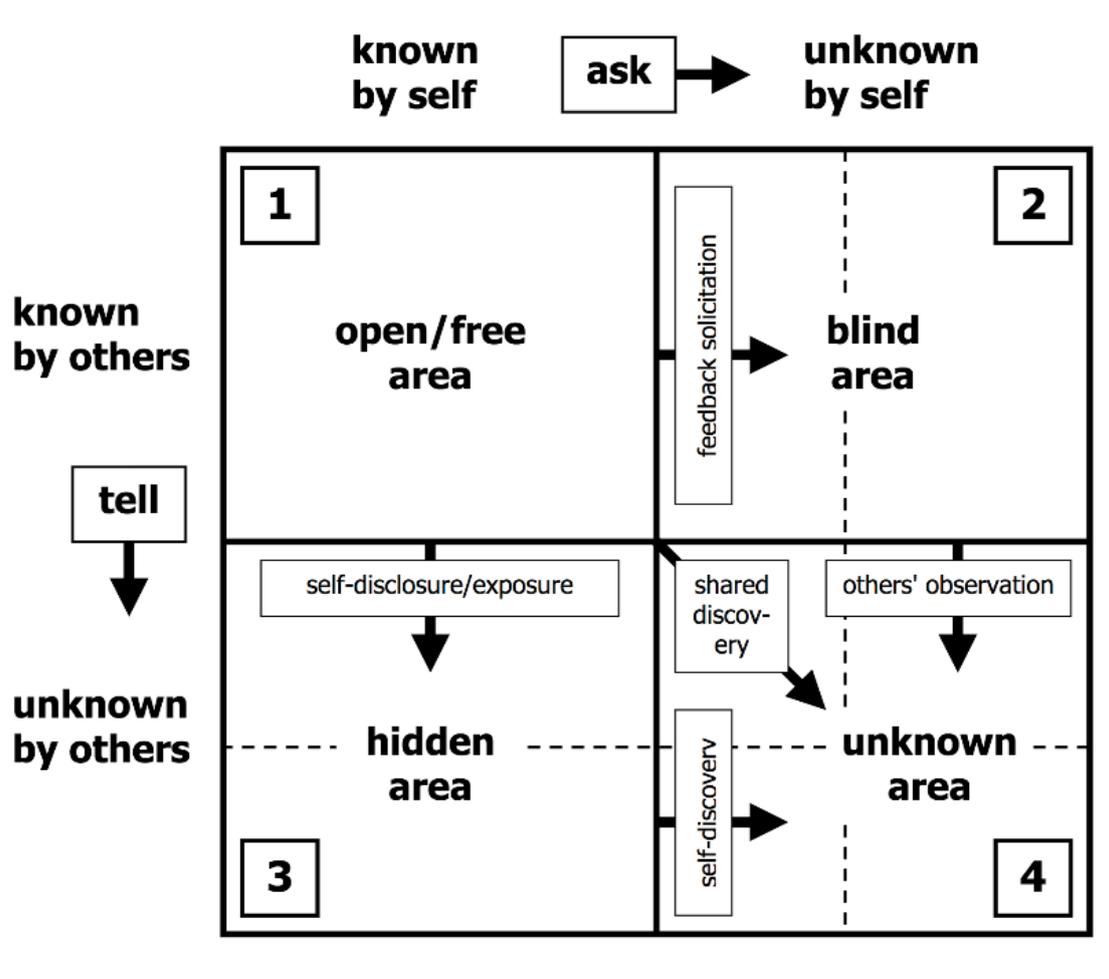

This is a powerful opportunity to boost REACH growth!

(REACH Subscribers can use unlimited 360's, this has no additional cost, and adds a lot of value at the right time in a person's growth journey).

Part 3: The Johari Window

This activity explores the degree to which someone (your coachee) is willing to disclose things about them. It could be argued that a precondition of personal growth is vulnerability – exposing to others what you think and feel and conversely opening yourself up to what others think and feel about you.

The Johari Window created by Jo Luft and Harrington Ingham is a tool that attempts to inform the subject what they disclose about themselves to others and what others perceive about them.

Use the Johari Window template and word list in Appendix D to run the activity.

Your coachee is to tick/circle 10 adjectives from the list that best describe them. You do the same, selecting 10 adjectives that you believe best describe your coachee. Then plot both sets of word on the template:

- Words in common – write these in the 'open' quadrant
- Words only the coachee chose – plot these in the 'hidden' quadrant
- Words only you (the coach) chose – plot these in the 'blind' quadrant

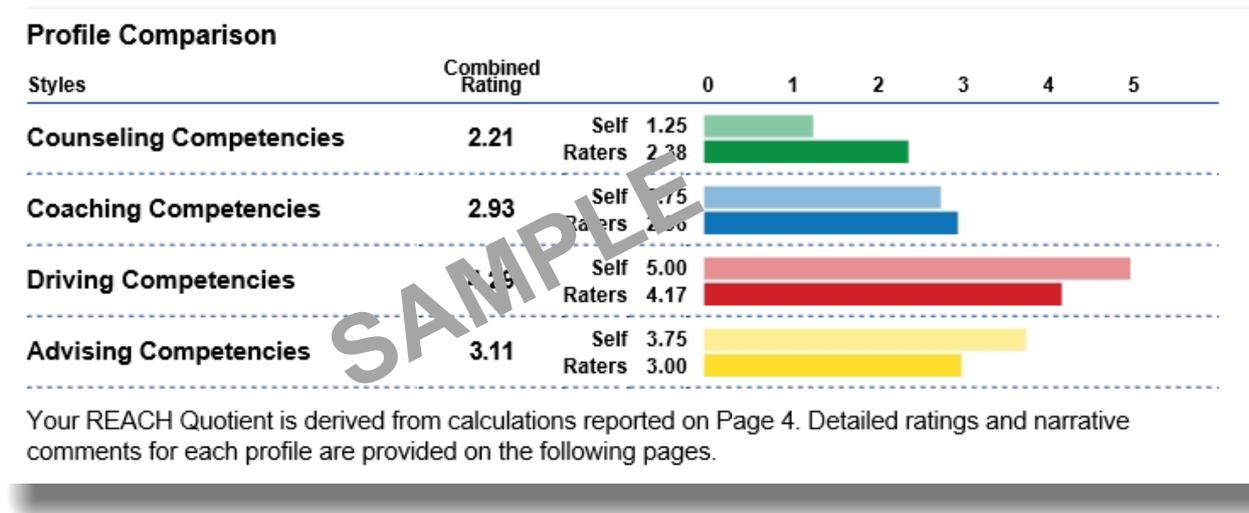

Debrief / Discussion with coachee

- Was the coachee surprised by the result?
- Are there qualities that the coachee wants others to see in them that are not being clearly communicated? What can the coachee do about this?
- Are there qualities that you as the coach see in the coachee that the coachee is surprised or uncomfortable with? Discuss how the coachee can become more aware of the impact of these qualities.

Part 4: REACH360 Report

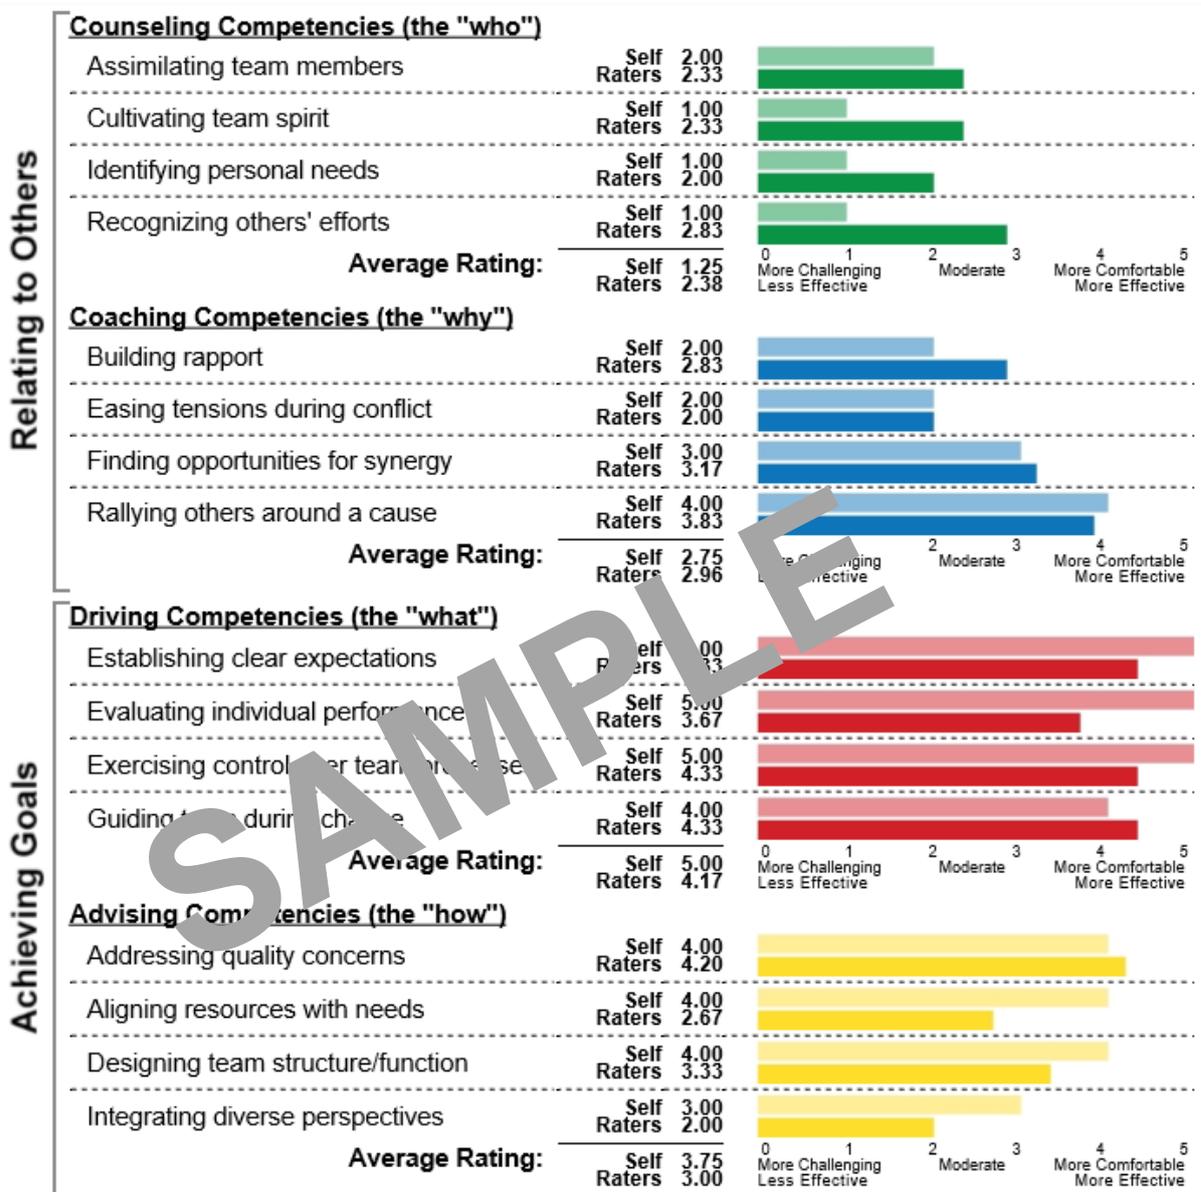

Now that you have explored openness for feedback with your coachee, it is time to review the information in their REACH360 Report.

The REACH is derived from the Self and Rater scores against the four groups of REACH skills:

Page 4 of the report provides a drill down on each of the skills.

REACH Competencies Summary

REACH Quotient: 3.14 out of 5.00

Your REACH Zone, shown on the LDP Matrix throughout this report, is derived from Overall REACH Ratings. On the pages that follow, you will find more detailed information regarding the ratings and observations gathered via the LDP:360 program.

The REACH360 report then goes on to explore each competency cluster and breaks the raters down into:

- Superiors
- Direct Reports
- Peers

An example is given below

REACHing to the Counselor Profile

The Counselor encourages a welcoming and nurturing climate in which team members recognize and care for each other's interests. The Counselor answers the "who" questions to ensure that team members are appreciated and supported.

Raters were asked to evaluate the frequency and effectiveness with which you may leverage this profile. The summary and detailed results are presented below:

Based on your responses to the REACH Profile, the Driver Profile is your primary style

Self-Rating: 4.00
Rater Categories: 2.50 (Rater Average)

Superiors (1) 3.00
 Peers (1) 2.75
 Direct Reports (1) 1.75

Gap: 1.50

Overall, your Self-Rating is higher than the average rating provided by your raters. This may be a blind spot within your leadership style.

Observation Statistics

Raters were asked to evaluate the extent to which you REACH to the Counselor Profile based on the following observations of your leading interactions.

Characteristic	Rating	0	1	2	3	4	5	Gap	Hi	Lo
Assimilating team members	Self	4.00	[Bar: 4/5]						4	4
	Superiors (1)	3.00	[Bar: 3/5]					1.00	3	3
	Peers (1)	3.00	[Bar: 3/5]					1.00	3	3
	Direct Reports (1)	1.00	[Bar: 1/5]					3.00	1	1
Cultivating team spirit	Self	4.00	[Bar: 4/5]						4	4
	Superiors (1)	4.00	[Bar: 4/5]					0.00	4	4
	Peers (1)	2.00	[Bar: 2/5]					2.00	2	2
	Direct Reports (1)	2.00	[Bar: 2/5]					2.00	2	2
Identifying personal needs	Self	4.00	[Bar: 4/5]						4	4
	Superiors (1)	2.00	[Bar: 2/5]					2.00	2	2
	Peers (1)	3.00	[Bar: 3/5]					1.00	3	3
	Direct Reports (1)	1.00	[Bar: 1/5]					3.00	1	1
Recognizing others' efforts	Self	4.00	[Bar: 4/5]						4	4
	Superiors (1)	3.00	[Bar: 3/5]					1.00	3	3
	Peers (1)	3.00	[Bar: 3/5]					1.00	3	3
	Direct Reports (1)	3.00	[Bar: 3/5]					1.00	3	3

Information that can be gleaned on each profile type includes:

- The overall gap between the self-rating and the rater categories (average)
- Nuances in how superiors, direct reports and peers rated

In the example above the coachee rated themselves quite low in comparison to the 'raters' and is more closely aligned to how Direct Reports rated (on average). Peers rated the coachee consistently higher than the coachee did (self) for all four skills.

Questions to explore with the coachee:

- Gaps between self and rater scores
- Variance in how peers, superiors and direct reports rate
 - Back to the Johari window - is the coachee showing different sides of themselves to different subgroups in their workplace and if so why?
 - How does the coachee's ability to influence different subgroups relate to the ratings observed?
- Which skills scored the lowest for self and raters and what steps can the coachee take to build those skills?

Part 5: For the next meeting

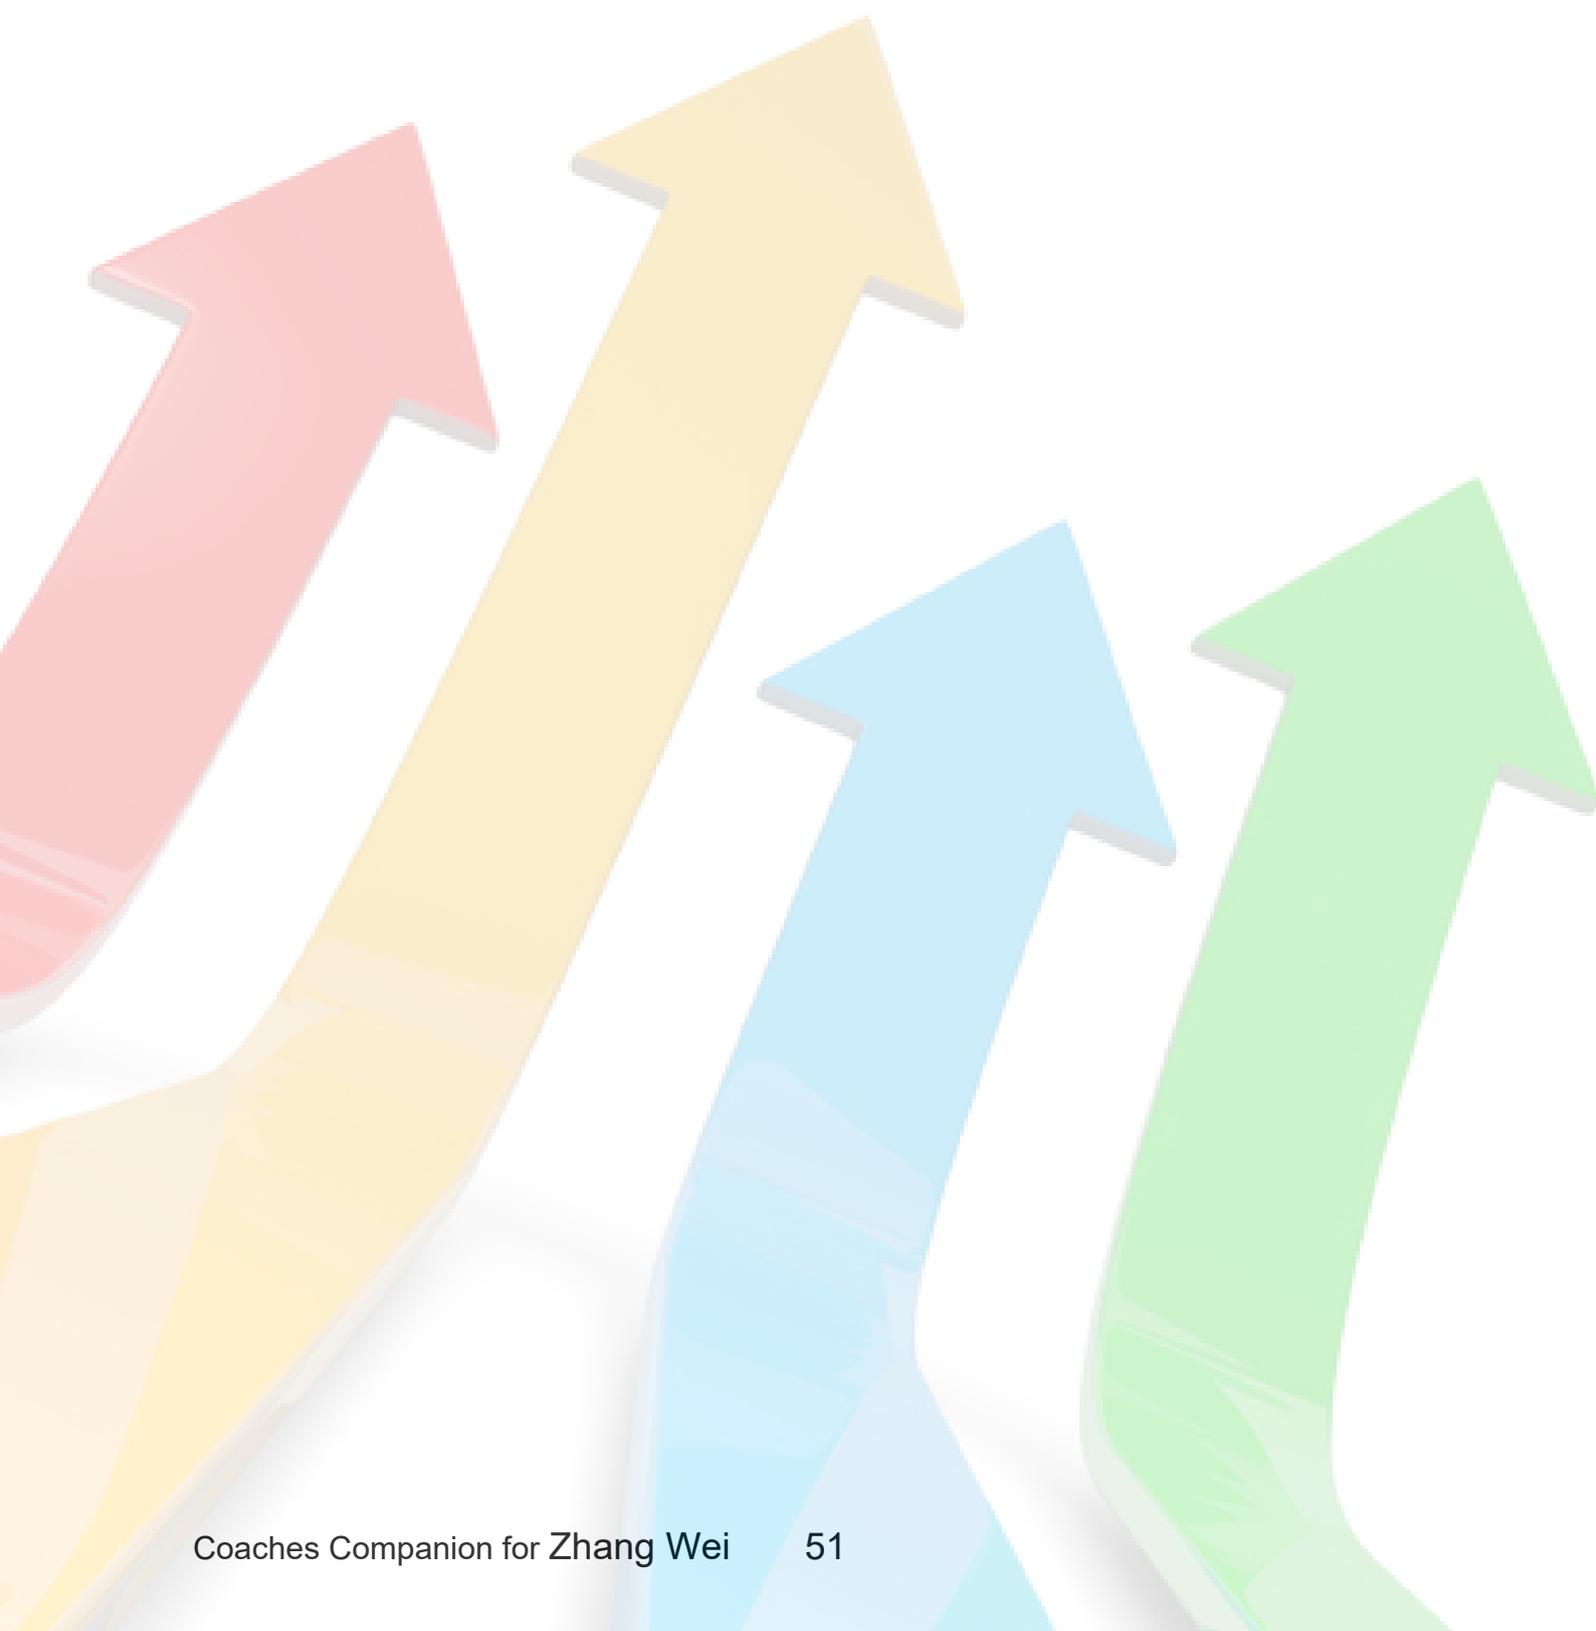

Ask the coachee to study both their REACH Profile and their REACH360 to highlight where they would like to focus their development/growth. In the next session you will work with the coachee to develop some personal growth targets.

Conclude by adopting the GROW process:

- What will be the Goal in reviewing the reports?
- What is the current Reality – to what extent do they understand the way forward in using these reports to map a growth path?
- What options do they have to develop a better understanding? This may include:
 - Having confidential discussions with peers, direct reports and superiors on the perceptions they have of them
 - Discussing the results with trusted people (e.g. family) outside of work
 - Meditation and self-reflection
 - Other?
- Wrap up – what steps will they take to achieve their goal in readiness for the next meeting

Cluster 2: Developing my REACH

Module 5: Development Targets (weeks 10-12)

Module 5: Development Targets (weeks 10-12)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Personal Style Profile
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH360
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

Your focus in Module 5 is on:

- Reviewing all the information thus far to identify which development goals the coachee wants to pursue using Section 4 of the REACH Personal Style Profile as a guide
- Checking with the coachee if the development goals identified align with the original overall goal of the program – exploring how they are or are not supporting that original goal
- Planning with the coachee on how these development goals will be obtained – use the GROW model for each of them to develop steps for actions prior to the next session

Part 1: A review of your coaching toolkit

Use your coaching questions toolkit to establish rapport at the beginning of the session:

- How was your weekend?
- How has the last week been?
- How did you get on doing x that you mentioned last week?
- How did your children enjoy...?

Opening the session / reviewing actions:

- What have been your highlights since we last spoke?
- What has gone well for you?
- What progress have you made?
- What have you been most pleased with since we last spoke?

Goals in Focus:

- What is important to you right now (has it changed)?
- What would you like to achieve from this session?
- What do you want to happen as a result of this session?
- By the end of the session what will you feel pleased to have achieved?
- If anything was possible what would you want?
- Describe your 10/10
- What do you want to happen?

Building on success:

- What is working well right now?
- What can you do more of that will help you move forward?
- How can you ensure this happens again?

Clarifying:

- So, can I just clarify...what you have said is....?
- Can you just tell me a bit more about....?
- So, if I have heard you correctly you have done...?

Exploring options:

- What would work for you?
- What options do you have for moving forward?
- What else could you do?
- If anything was possible what would be your ideal course of action?
- How have you handled this successfully in the past?
- Who do you know who has been in a similar situation...(wait for response)... how did they handle the situation?
- If you were advising a friend what would you suggest?
- If you did know what to do what would the answer be?

Challenging:

- Last session you said x and now you are saying y...which is the truth/reality/more important?
- If I were to challenge you to complete this by next week what would be your reaction?
- Using the coaching questions toolkit to unstick/get movement
- If you did know the answer what would it be?
- What question would you like me to ask you?
- What question should I be asking you?

Measurement of progress or commitment:

- On a scale of 1 -10 what progress have you made so far in achieving your goal?
- On a scale of 1 – 10 how committed/motivated are you to carrying out this action?
- On a scale of 1 -10 where are you in relation to...?

Stimulate deeper thinking:

- What are you not facing up to?
- What are you pretending not to know?
- If you did know the answer what would it be?
- What is the real issue here?
- What would your best friend be saying to you right now?
- What is really important to you?

Exploring values/unlocking motivation:

- What is really important to you right now?
- What would you like people to say about you?
- When things were going well for you what was happening?
- When did you last feel energized...what was happening for you?

Agreeing on Action:

- What is your way forward?
- Which option most excites you?
- What one small action/step are you now going to take?
- How are you going to do it?
- When exactly will you do it?
- Who will help you?
- On a scale of 1 -10 how committed/motivated are you to achieving this?
- How will you ensure you do it?

Part 2: Link Back to Previous Sessions

Refer to their Personal Style Profile from Session 1.

Ask them to reflect on how their default approach may have positively contributed to situations and relationships.

Ask them how they may have been able to adapt their approach in certain situations (whether that be situationally “I could have spent more time or less time planning”, or interpersonally “I shouldn’t have avoided the conflict” or “I could have been more diplomatic”).

If you used any Strengths Poker or a Strengths Finder tool of some type before, refer back to the strengths they identified and ask your coachee how often they lived in alignment with those strengths, how they felt, and how it impacted those around them.

Part 3: Review your coachee's Development Targets

One way to bring clarity to your coachee on what growth opportunities to pursue is to revisit the Development Targets in their Personal Style Profile.

Part of a typical coachee report is given below.

Section 4: Coaching Points

The following characteristics represent five key strengths that have emerged from the dimensions highlighted in your Personal Style Profile. These strengths are those which are likely most evident in your response to goals and relationships. Since each strength can present a unique challenge if underutilized or taken too far, specific developmental points are provided as well.

Objective (Consideration)

-  Key Strength: You tend to remain objective where others may become emotionally involved in making decisions or solving problems. Others can rely on you for an impartial perspective. Your objectivity can provide great balance in approaching complex problems and your desire to stay on task can keep the team moving along.
-  Development Target: At times your approach may be viewed as cold or harsh by more sensitive team members. Take care to soften your comments as you stay on message.

Consistent (Adaptability)

-  Key Strength: You provide a steady and reliable perspective. You are not easily caught up in fads or hype, and you require justification before an unproven approach is considered. You provide a consistent and predictable approach to issues that face the team. Others can count on you for dependability.
-  Development Target: While your reliability can be constructive, be careful not to dig in your heels to resist change unnecessarily.

A suggested way to approach a discussion on development targets is as follows:

- Discuss each development target in turn:
 - Ask the coachee for their understanding of what the statement means
 - Ask the coachee if they can point to any examples where they were aware of exhibiting the behavior
 - Alternatively reflect with the coachee on how that behavior could manifest itself
 - Reflect on instances known to the coachee where others have behaved in this manner and what impact this had on others
 - Reflect on the Johari Window activity – could the coachee be blind to these behaviors at times, and if so, what could the coachee do to increase their awareness of these behaviors within themselves
- Invite the coachee to select one to two development targets that they would like to work on
- Use the GROW model to determine the next actions the coachee could take to develop competence in the chosen areas

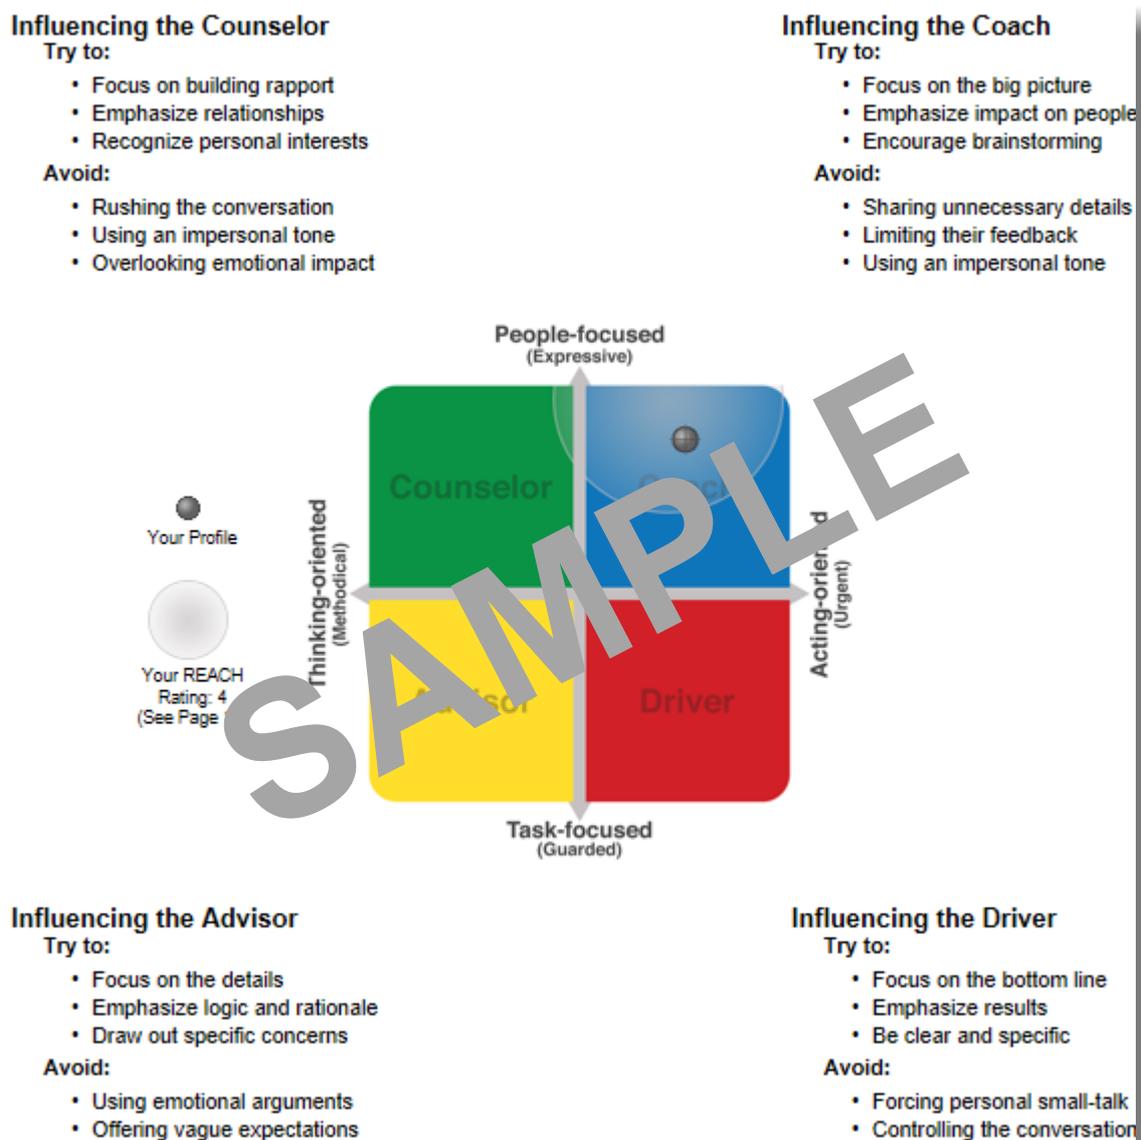

Part 4: Review your coachee's REACH360

If you haven't already done so earlier, in this session review the REACH360 report now that your coachee has had a chance to consider it more deeply.

The REACH360 report contains a lot of rich information on the coachee's current level of REACH into each of the four profiles

In this session take the time to identify situational behaviors of these important people as being traits of their style and reflect on how your coachee can recognize those traits for what they are, how they can work with those traits for greatest mutual benefit, and how they can purposefully make the most of the combination of personality approaches.

The image below (included in the Leading Profile Report) is a great page to use to frame the linking and coaching focus for impactful relationships and REACH Growth.

When considering the REACH360, work with your coachee to determine which part of the report the coachee would like to focus on.

As an example, consider the sample report below which is showing the section on 'REACHing to the Advisor Profile'

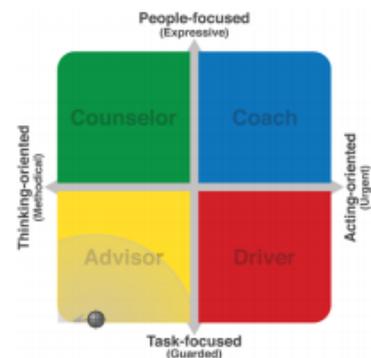

As was highlighted in Module 4, the first image shows the Self and Rater scores against the four skills and a summary of the Self Rating and Rater Average.

REACHing to the Advisor Profile

The Advisor is recognized for maintaining a stable and structured work process in which resources are used to maximize team members' efficiency. The Advisor answers the "how" questions to ensure the team operates in an orderly and consistent manner.

Raters were asked to evaluate the frequency and effectiveness with which you may leverage this profile.

Summary and detailed results are presented below:

Self-Rating: 4.50

Rater Categories: 3.13 (Rater Average)

Direct Reports (2) 3.13

Peers (1) 4.25

Others/Undisclosed (1) 2.00

Based on your responses to the REACH Profile, Advisor profile is your primary style

Gap: 1.38

Overall, your Self-Rating is lower than the average rating provided by your raters. This may be a blind spot within your leadership style.

Observation Statistics

Raters were asked to evaluate the extent to which you REACH to the Advisor Profile based on the following observations of your leading interactions.

Characteristic	Rating	0	1	2	3	4	5	Gap	Hi	Lo
Addressing quality concerns	Self	5.00	[Progress bar to 5.00]						5	5
	Direct Reports (2)	3.50	[Progress bar to 3.50]					1.5	4	3
	Peers (1)	5.00	[Progress bar to 5.00]					0.0	5	5
	Others/Undisclosed (1)	3.00	[Progress bar to 3.00]					2.0	3	3
Aligning resources with needs	Self	5.00	[Progress bar to 5.00]						5	5
	Direct Reports (2)	3.50	[Progress bar to 3.50]					1.5	4	3
	Peers (1)	5.00	[Progress bar to 5.00]					0.0	5	5
	Others/Undisclosed (1)	2.00	[Progress bar to 2.00]					3.0	2	2
Designing team structure/function	Self	5.00	[Progress bar to 5.00]						5	5
	Direct Reports (2)	3.00	[Progress bar to 3.00]					2.0	3	3
	Peers (1)	4.00	[Progress bar to 4.00]					1.0	4	4
	Others/Undisclosed (1)	1.00	[Progress bar to 1.00]					4.0	1	1
Integrating diverse perspectives	Self	3.00	[Progress bar to 3.00]						3	3
	Direct Reports (2)	2.50	[Progress bar to 2.50]					0.5	3	2
	Peers (1)	3.00	[Progress bar to 3.00]					0.0	3	3
	Others/Undisclosed (1)	2.00	[Progress bar to 2.00]					1.0	2	2

Particularly poignant is the comments section.

In our example, the comments left by raters were as follows:

Comments on REACHing to the Advisor Profile

Raters were asked to provide optional comments regarding your utilization of the Advisor Profile. Any comments provided are shown below:

- Charles should listen more to the ideas of his team as we are best placed to improve things. Some of my team are discouraged from offering suggestions for improvement as nothing appears to ever happen.
- All good
- Charles has led the quality control of the business for many years to his credit. He can at times be a little headstrong in his decision making and could benefit from taking on more diverse perspectives especially in making strategic decisions.

The comments provide a narrative for the raw scores and a meaningful basis for reflection by the coachee.

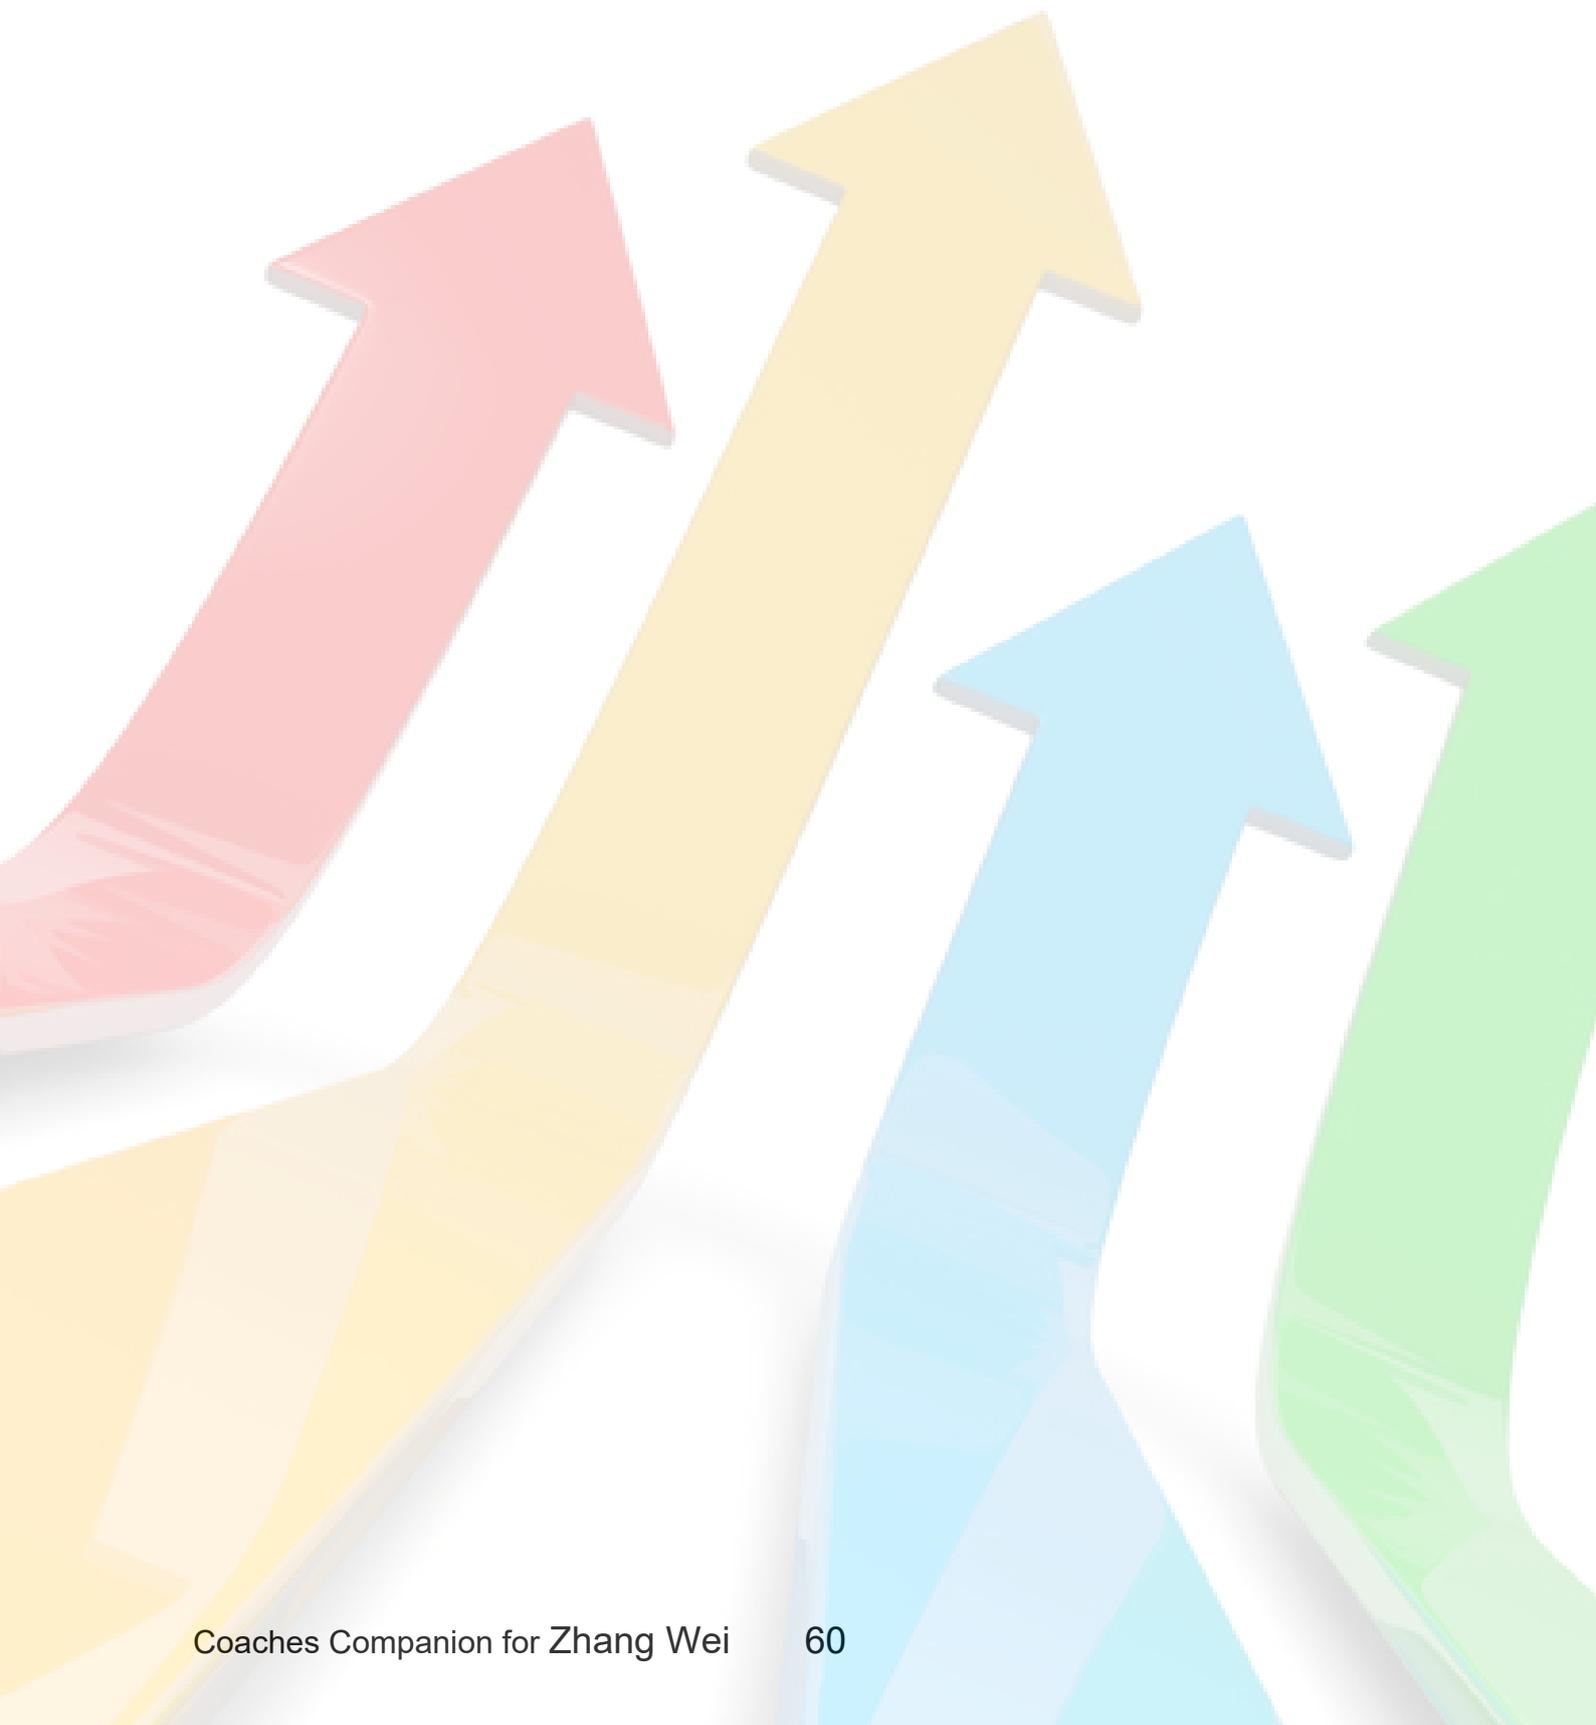

As stated in Part 3 above, you can lead a discussion with the coachee to explore the meaning they attribute to the scores and comments and then to crystallize one or more development targets.

A suggested way to approach a discussion is as follows:

- Ask the coachee for their understanding of what the rater's scores and comments mean and how the coachee's behaviors and actions/inaction may lead to those views being expressed
- Ask the coachee what areas of growth they can identify for themselves based on the information presented
- Establish one or more developmental goals. Make sure the goal(s) is well defined and achievable. You may like to use a helpful method SMART:
 - S = specific/significant/stretching
 - M = measurable/meaningful
 - A = achievable/acceptable
 - R = realistic/relevant/reasonable
 - T = time-based/time-bound
- Use the GROW model to determine the next actions the coachee could take to develop competence in the chosen areas

Cluster 2: Developing my REACH

Module 6: Practicing REACH (weeks 13-16)

Module 6: Practicing REACH (weeks 13-16)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Communication Profile
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before the next meeting

Your focus in Module 6 is on:

- Discussing the essential attributes for communicating with different profiles
- Reviewing the strengths of your coachee's communication profile and the coaching areas identified
- Planning a forthcoming scenario with your coachee to enable them to practice their REACH
- Check in on goals identified in previous sessions and progress to date. Use the GROW model for each of them to develop steps for actions prior to the next session

Part 1: Review of Communication Profile

REACH PROFILES

Advise your coachee to review their REACH Communication Profile ahead of this session.

This report provides general information on each of the profiles, how best to interact with each profile type and more detailed information on the coachee's profile type and how it influences specific behaviors including communication.

The specific behaviors comprise:

- Focus
- Communicating
- Conflict-handling
- Decision making

Section 2 of the report contains generic information on interacting with each of the four profile types.

Section 2: Profile Interactions

Whether building rapport with strangers or discussing a challenging topic with a long-time associate, communication can be enhanced when you learn to "stretch" or mirror the other profiles. Although difficult early on, practice can make the stretching feel more natural over time – allowing you to recognize and interact with people from all four profiles with ease

Interacting with the Counselor

Try to:

- Build genuine rapport
- Affirm what you hear
- Recognise personal interests

Avoid:

- Rushing the conversation
- Using an impersonal tone
- Overlooking emotional impact

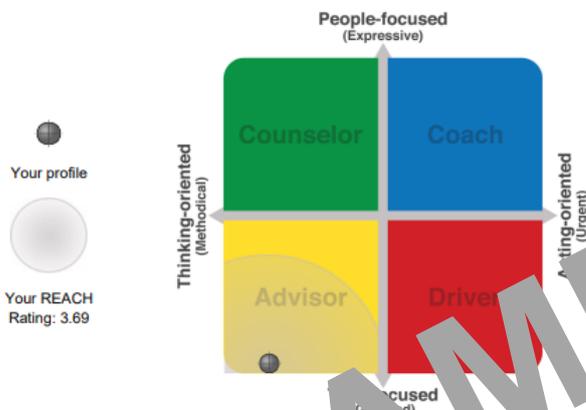

Interacting with the Coach

Try to:

- Focus on the big picture
- Emphasize impact on people
- Encourage brainstorming

Avoid:

- Sharing unnecessary details
- Limiting their feedback
- Using an impersonal tone

Interacting with the Advisor

Try to:

- Focus on the details
- Emphasize logic and rationale
- Draw out specific concerns

Avoid:

- Using emotional arguments
- Offering vague expectations
- Pushing for a conclusion

Interacting with the Driver

Try to:

- Focus on the bottom line
- Emphasize results
- Be clear and specific

Avoid:

- Forcing personal small-talk
- Controlling the conversation
- Challenging their position

Note the sentence in the opening paragraph about 'practice'. The aim of this session is plan with the coachee how they can practice exercising their REACH.

Section 3 of the Communication Profile provides more specific information on the coachee's communication profile.

Section 3: Profile Overview

Our personality drives how we approach people and tasks. This section provides practical observations regarding how your preferred profile influences specific behaviours.

Focus: Knowing

Advisors tend to enjoy developing expertise in themselves and others. As such, they may be most motivated when their efforts are focused on learning new things and then instructing others. Advisors tend to expect themselves and others to seek perfection in their work. So, where others may be looking only at the bottom line, the Advisor may be far more concerned with the incremental details and processes involved.

Communicating: Reserved

The Advisor's communication style is usually quite reserved and formal. The Advisor is typically reluctant to share personal information or experiences with others (outside of their close friends or family). The Advisor's primary mode is best described as "on task" and focuses on providing instruction or guidance around processes and procedures. When communicating with a group or team setting, they tend to convey a desire for privacy and formality.

Conflict-handling: Compromising

The Advisor is typically known to be reluctant to approach conflict. As their attention is mostly focused on maintaining an efficient workflow, the Advisor views conflict as something that must be avoided whenever possible. While others may choose to accommodate or even compete during conflict, the Advisor seeks to "pick up the pieces" and compromise where necessary. They tend to approach conflict objectively, and they are most concerned with minimizing any lingering disruptive impact on the group's performance.

Decision-making: Careful

The Advisor is typically known for taking careful action, while mitigating uncertainty and risk. The Advisor tends to focus their efforts on establishing a detailed plan of attack before taking the first step. While others may be quick to act and then adjust course as the need arises, the Advisor tends to be very cautious and meticulous in their preparation. As such, they are more likely than others to value planning and analysis, and they are most comfortable addressing challenges in an objective and rational manner.

Potential Strengths

- Concerned for accuracy and efficiency
- Rule conscious
- Focused on practicality
- Consistent and reliable in their decisions
- Self-reliant
- Formal and professional in demeanor
- Objective and rational in decision-making
- Focused on task accomplishment

Potential Challenges

- Reluctant to act
- Frustrated by change
- Lacking in confidence
- Hesitant to explore unproven ideas
- Reluctant to offer feedback or ideas
- Uncomfortable in a highly collaborative environment
- Considered cold or harsh when under stress
- Viewed as impatient and uninterested with others

You will note the potential strengths and potential challenges.

Suggestions for exploring your coachee's communication profile is as follows:

- Reviewing the REACH360 and the rater scores and comments and identifying any that be may be linked to communication style and potentially to the challenges highlighted in the Communication Profile report.
- Review the sphere of influence activity from Module 3. Ask the coachee to revisit the key people he/she would like to influence more. Work with the coachee to classify these people according to their potential profile type. Then review how each of them would prefer to interact. Some questions for the coachee to consider:
 - Do you usually interact with people in the same way?
 - Are there some people that you would like to influence more who may require a different communication approach based on their profile?
 - What can you do to change how you interact with them - what do you need to be conscious of?

Part 2: Plan (or review) an opportunity to practice REACH

Across this journey we have looked at the most important people, strengths, gaps, personal awareness and situational awareness.

A very impactful coaching session can be achieved by asking your coachee to share a situation they can either foresee coming up this week, or that happened in the previous week.

You'll add value to your coachee if you identify a scenario with them that they want to handle really well, and plan it together using the following structure:

- What is the scenario?
- What are the best and worst outcomes?
- Who else is impacted?
- Where will it take place?
- When will it take place?
- What strengths does your natural profile bring to the situation?
- What will your natural profile tend to focus on too much/overlook without adapting?
- How can you adapt your approach to be more effective?
- What are the personality types of other people in the scenario?
- How can you adapt your approach to be more conscious of their profile needs and approach?

Then, together work through planning by asking questions that lead your coachee to reach their own conclusions and develop their own strategy.

Tip: You can lead them by using materials from your relevant training materials such as conflict resolution, performance appraisals, negotiation skills etc

Remember to debrief with your coachee next session to see how it went and use the experience as a learning opportunity – regardless of the outcome.

Cluster 2: Developing my REACH

Module 7: Expanding REACH (weeks 17-19)

Module 7: Expanding REACH (weeks 17-19)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH REACH Quotient
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

Your focus in Module 7 is on:

- Developing your coachee's ability to grow their REACH into each of the four profile types
- Check in on goals identified in previous sessions and progress to date. Use the GROW model for each of them to develop steps for actions prior to the next session

Part 1: Preamble

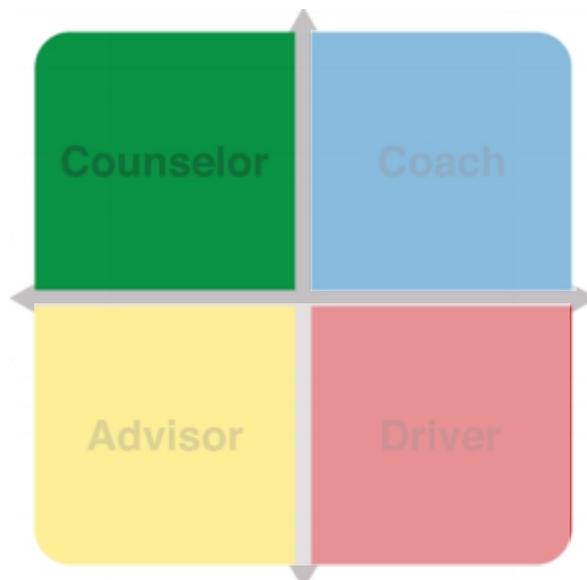

Developing agility and REACH stems from awareness and purposeful stretching and adapting for a sustained amount of time – the longer people maintain the purposeful choice to 'shift gear', the easier and more natural it will become – their REACH will grow.

During your coaching relationship you will identify situations, or simply a desire from your coachee, to actively focus on one or more specific dimensions of their REACH.

Growing is hard and takes conscious effort – as well as a willingness to fail as part of the process. As such, the activities and suggestions below will frequently put your coachee well out of their comfort zone; sometimes virtually setting them up for failure on their first attempts. Responsible coaches will pick when to try different approaches, and frame for the coachee that as Wayne Gretzky (one of the greatest ice hockey players of all time) is famously quoted as saying “You miss 100% of the shots you don’t take”, however to get good at something you need to take the shot and practice.

Help your coachee pick their times to take the shot to practice for the ‘main event’ – which is a better quality of life and better relationship every day.

Grow your coachee's ability to REACH into 'Counselor'

Start the conversation:

When you recognize someone could benefit from growing their REACH into Counselor, listen for comments like the ones below or use these as conversation starters (ask something like “can you relate to comments like these?”) if you sense there is something, and then dig deeper (see digging deeper).

My Team needs me to be more of a Counselor

- a) I work with someone who is clearly a Counselor, I don't think the way I am managing things is useful for me, them or the team.
- b) We have significant change going on at work and some people who I expect are Counselors, are struggling, I am finding it difficult to relate, I want to do better.

My plans at work aren't working out, what am I missing?

- c) I get great ideas to improve things at work, I see how it can work and the great results we can get, but no one really gets on board.
- d) I find I am always chasing my tail, details and things keep springing up and surprising me, I can make decisions on the fly, but they're not always right, where am I going wrong?

I have customers who want to talk talk talk, I just want to get things sorted with them and move on, how do I get them to stop talking?

- e) I am in sales, and I have prospects who research everything and just want to chat about their kids and families, I need them to make a decision, so I can get to the next prospect, time is money!
- f) I am in Customer Service and I want to help as many customers as I can (I don't like seeing people on hold) and I am measured on the amount of calls I resolve, so it's my job, some customers spend forever telling me about all this stuff, but I don't need to know to help them, what can I do?

Digging Deeper

When you hit on a point that strikes a chord, it's important to really understand the challenge, use some of the following techniques:

- Paraphrase three to five times using statements like:
“So, have I heard correctly that you find ____”?
“Have I got the most important parts if I describe the situation like this ____”?
- Ask clarifying questions when you're confused about the facts or to fill in blanks.
- Remember, avoid problem solving or coaching, just get clear about the situation.

Opening up for REACH Growth

Try the following sequence with your coachee:

1. Remind ourselves what a 'Counselor Profile' tends to focus on – People and Detail (to keep it simple).
2. Contrast it to your coachee's default approach.
3. Ask your coachee to think of a time when a stronger focus on people or detail than their natural approach was important (family, sport, work teams, product design etc).

Use the specific situation to unpack the differences

Referring to the situation of concern, ask your coachee to look at why the Counselor profile has benefits in this situation? Here are some examples matching to different Conversation Starters above to help frame the conversations:

Conversation starter	Coach reframing questions
a) We have significant change going on at work some people, who I expect are Counselors, are struggling, I am finding it difficult to relate, I want to do better.	If you have a lot of change going on, if Counselors are concerned with people, do you think they may be resisting out of concern for their colleague's position? Or if Counselors value detail, thinking about the communication so far, do you think they have been provided with enough information for them to get on board?
b) I find I am always chasing my tail, details and things keep springing up and surprising me, I can make decisions on the fly, but they're not always right, where am I going wrong?	You're not naturally inclined to focus on people and details to the extent a Counselor is, so are any of the things that caught you out; detail or people oriented?
c) I am in sales, and I have prospects who research everything, and just want to chat about their kids and families, I need them to make a decision so I can get to the next prospect, time is money!	My impression of sales in the current world is that having a good quality conversation to build trust with a prospect is rare, when coaches are sharing about their family or their research into the process, could this be an opportunity?

Moving Forward:

Now it's time for your coachee to begin to grow their REACH, and there's many options to take here, which will depend on the circumstances. In general, they break down to two different approaches:

1. This month when the situation arises, I am going to shift gear into 'Counselor Profile' and _____ (from the conversation starter scenarios):
 - and deliver my communication with enough detail to meet the needs of Counselors,
 - and approach a Counselor to help me plan the people impacts of a project, so I don't miss those details again,
 - and see the opportunity to build trust, then use the _____ technique to progress the conversation.
2. This month I am going to proactively seek out the input from _____ (a Counselor profile in my team) and seek their input, so I gain a different perspective before the situation arises:
 - and plan my communication including their input,
 - schedule meetings with agenda that reflect their perspective,
 - ask them to help me explain situations in ways that other Counselors will relate to.

Set a plan

On _____ or when _____ happens I am going to _____ with a goal to _____

(Encourage reflection)

Set an expectation for review for reflection and growth

"Next session let's discuss how it went, what we can learn, and what we'll add to be more effective stretching to Counselor next time"

Part 2A: Activities to develop specific Counseling skills

Depending on where your coachee is at with their confidence in applying the models, you may want to help them develop their skills by using the activities that follow. Two activities have been suggested for each competency. You and the coachee may decide to use either or both of these activities.

Assimilating team members [competency]

Activity: New manager assimilation

This activity can be completed when a manager (your coachee) is relatively new to their team and ideally should be conducted after the team has had time to settle in – say approximately three months.

Part 1 – Preparing reflective questions

In this activity brainstorm with the coachee a series of questions that the coachee can have their team answer any questions they can answer themselves.

The coachee should then distribute the questions to their team, allowing sufficient time for them to reflect on the answers, and bring those answers with them to the facilitated assimilation session.

Part 2 - Facilitated assimilation session

This should be a facilitated session between the coachee and their team. During the session (allow up to two hours) the coachee reveals the answers to the questions they asked of themselves. The team then reveal the answers to their questions.

The desired outcome of the session is to gain a greater understanding of each other.

In a follow up coaching session, you can debrief the results of the facilitated assimilation session.

+++++

The following are suggestions only. Work with your coachee to produce a list that is meaningful to her/him.

Reflective questions for the team to consider

'About Us' Questions:

- What do you want your new boss to know about this team?
- How can your new manager help this team be successful?
- What do you enjoy doing outside of work?
- What do you see as the biggest challenge the team is facing?
- What is it that you enjoy about working here?
- How would you describe this team in one word?

Expectations of the manager:

- What do you expect of your new manager?
- What do you need your boss to be aware of when it comes to managing this team?
- How do you want your manager to communicate with you? Email, phone, etc?
- How much contact do you expect/need from the manager?
- What can your new manager do to make him/her successful?
- What 'hot buttons' does your new boss need to be aware of?

Reflective questions for the manager (coachee) to consider about themselves

'About You' questions:

- What do you enjoy doing when you are not working?
- How would your family and friends describe you?
- What are the values that drive you?
- What has been your career progression?
- How do you maintain work/life balance?
- Where would you like to go on vacation if you had a month off and money was no object?
- What are your career aspirations?
- Tell us about your family, kids, hobbies.
- Where did you grow up? Where else have you lived?

Management style:

- Are you a hands-on boss, overseer or highly involved manager?
- What are your 'hot buttons?' What are those things that really annoy you and that we should avoid?
- What principles do you value highly in people who work for you?
- How should we balance what you want to be kept informed of?
- How would you describe your management style? How has it changed over time?
- What is your preferred mode of communication? Phone, email, etc?

Expectations:

- What are your goals for the first 6 months and where do we fit into this vision?
- What perceptions do you have coming into our organization?
- What similarities/differences do you see in this business as compared to prior businesses you have worked in? What can you apply here?
- What are your expectations of staff work/life balance?
- What are your expectations of our working hours and accessibility?
- Do you expect staff to be engaged on weekends? Respond to weekend messages?
- What are your priorities and what do you see as the major obstacles our business needs to overcome?
- What are your top 3 priorities for us?

Activity: First Day, First Week

New team members need to feel welcome, need to feel they belong and need to feel they can make a difference from day one. Crucial to creating a sense of belonging is to plan in detail what the new employee will be exposed to on their first day and during their first week.

During this activity, work with your coachee to develop a checklist of the first day and first week onboarding activities that the new employee will complete.

Some broad themes to explore with the coachee include:

- What will make the new employee feel welcome?
- What people things need to be done on day one?
- What settling in activities need to be done on day one?
- What do you want the employee to absorb about the organization's culture?
- What expectations may the employee have?
- What support will be available for the employee?
- What would the employee like to debrief/review in week one?

Therefore...

What is on the checklist for Day 1?	What is on the checklist for Week 1?

Cultivating team spirit [competency]

Activity: Involve your team in creating an upbeat culture

In the first part of this activity brainstorm with your coachee actions they can take with their team to create an upbeat culture.

Some suggestions are given below. Work with your coachee to determine what else could be added to this list:

In the second part of the activity, consider one or more of these ideas and how to put them into practice. Brainstorm with your coachee what they can do personally and what they could try to do with their team.

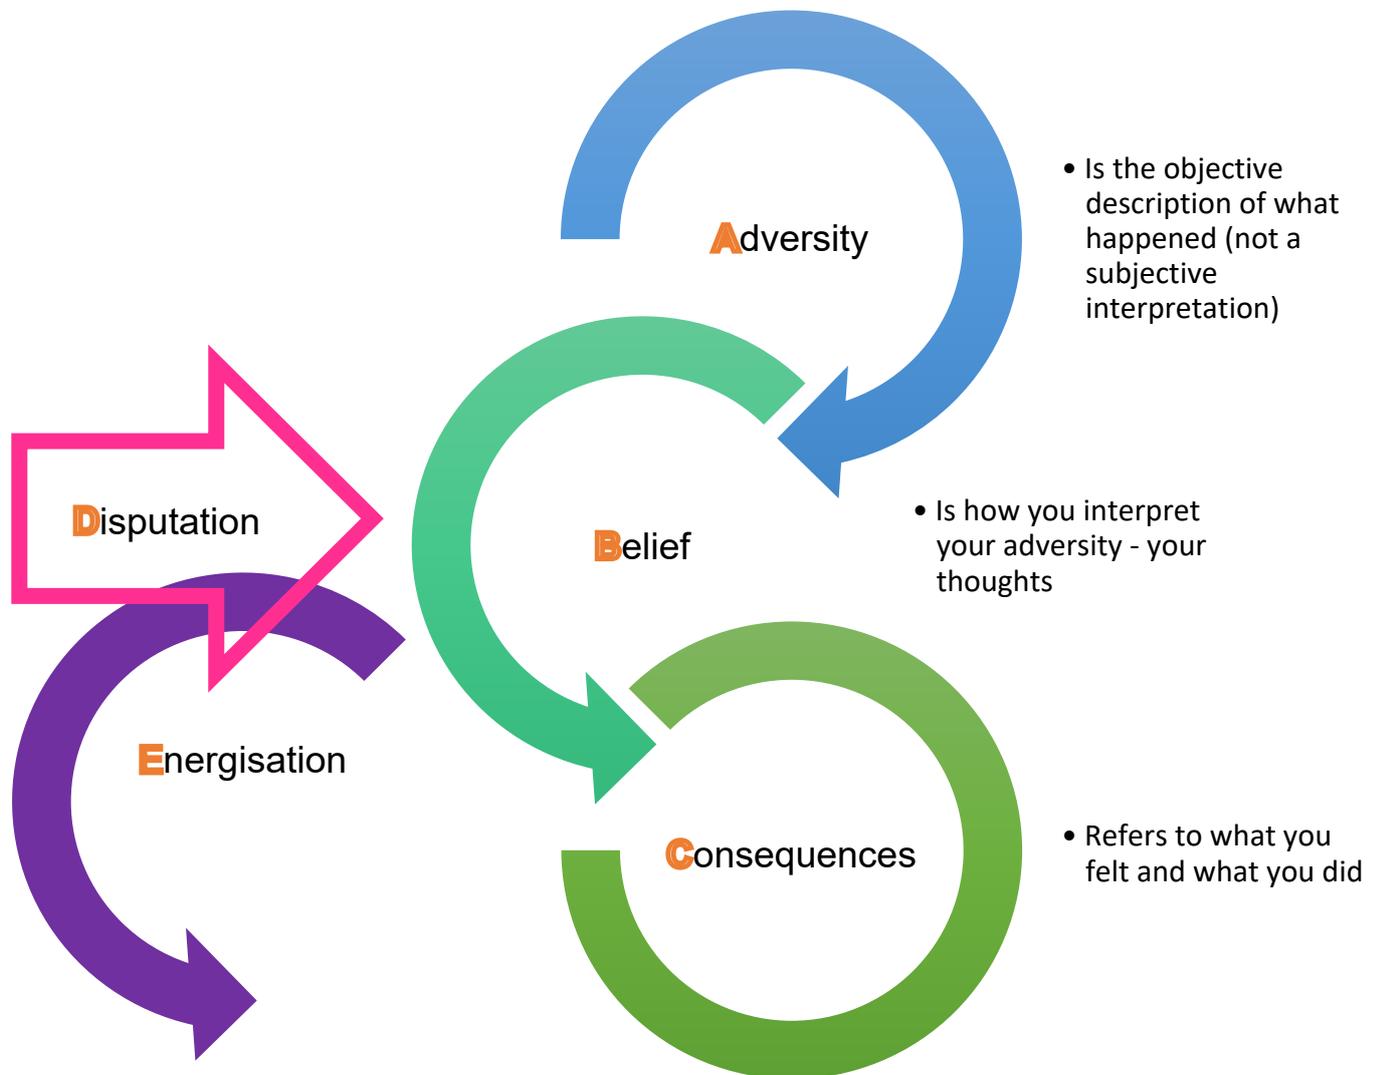

Idea 1	What I can do personally	What I can try with my team
---------------	---------------------------------	------------------------------------

Idea 2	What I can do personally	What I can try with my team
---------------	---------------------------------	------------------------------------

Activity: Learning to be optimistic

This activity can be used by the coachee and the coachee can use the activity with their team.

Seligman (1990) argued that a person could work on their explanation for an adverse event that happens to them, and in doing so, argue against their pessimistic beliefs.

The Disputation step involves disputing your beliefs about the adverse event through examining:

- Evidence – what evidence and facts support your beliefs?
- Alternatives – what alternative explanations for the event exist – consider changeable, specific and non-personal causes
- Implications – if your belief is correct are the implications that follow correct?
- Usefulness – how useful is it to hold on to this belief?

The Energisation step comes from applying the model and the net gain in energy resulting from challenging your beliefs.

An example of applying the ABCDE Model (adapted from Magya-Moe 2009)

Adversity	I received a negative review from my boss at work. She said that I am not outgoing enough to work the sales floor and therefore is going to have me work in stock control instead
Beliefs	I have been working really hard and obviously it does not matter. I hate my boss and this stupid job. I don't want to see her or anyone at work for that matter. I am fed up with the whole thing
Consequences	I got my review two days ago and am still furious. I really want to tell my boss off and then quit so that she can deal with covering my hours for the next week. I called in sick already yesterday since I could not fathom seeing her. I don't know what I am going to do tomorrow though. I am scheduled to work a double shift and don't have any sick days left.
Disputation	Although I think my boss could have been fairer in my review, she is probably right that my personality is not as naturally outgoing as many of the other salespeople. I am not always comfortable talking to all the customers and that probably shows through, but at the same time, I am not completely incapable as she made it seem. I guess she must see this on some level since she still wants me to work there, just in a different position. If she really disliked me, she could have just fired me. Maybe I am taking this too personally. I really do like my colleagues and the pay is pretty good. I guess in the stockroom I will have more time to interact with my colleagues and I don't have to worry so much about my wardrobe. Professional work clothes are expensive!
Energisation	I feel much less angry. I am still a little bothered by how the review focused only on the negatives, but I know my boss had a lot of reviews to do that day, so she was probably just trying to conserve time. It was hard to admit that I am not as outgoing as some of my colleagues, but I do realize that this is the case. I am looking forward to spending more time with my colleagues in the stock room and not feeling so on edge all the time.

Now get the coachee to think of an adverse situation that has occurred recently and ask them to recall their thinking and how they felt. Use the prompts in the table below to assist.

Adversity	Describe a recent adverse event Include the what, when, who and where Be specific and accurate Be objective Stick to the facts
Beliefs	Record what you were saying to yourself at the time What was running through your mind? Write it down verbatim Be honest
Consequences	Record the consequences of your beliefs List all the emotions you felt List all the reactions you can identify
Disputation	Generate one piece of evidence to point out the inaccuracy in your beliefs or, generate a more accurate/optimistic Alternative belief about the adversity or, if your beliefs are correct do the implications make sense, i.e. what is the most likely outcome
Energisation	Describe how the Disputation changed your energy What happened to your mood? How did your behavior change? What solutions do you see that you didn't see before?

Identifying personal needs [competency]

Activity: Identifying and overcoming a weakness

(Note: this activity is taken from the “Identifying Differences as Opportunities” course)

This activity explores potential weaknesses (as opposed to strengths) and how that weakness can be overcome. The coachee can explore personal weaknesses and they can also use this technique with team members to identify and overcome their weaknesses.

Describe an activity at work you dislike doing
Describe why you dislike it
How does doing this activity make you feel?
Do you have all the skills and knowledge to competently perform the activity?
Can you change when and how you complete the activity?
Are there benefits to you or the organization in completing this activity? What is the upside, what are the positives?
Can you utilize more of your strengths in completing the activity?
Will gaining more confidence in performing this activity help moderate this weakness? If so, how will you do this?

Activity: Identifying personal development needs

The American Society for Training and Development's (ASTD) Strategic Needs Analysis, have developed six steps that managers can use to better target the personal development of their team members:

- Review team members' job descriptions
- Meet with them
- Observe them at work
- Gather additional data
- Analyze and prepare data
- Determine action steps

The following questions can also be asked:

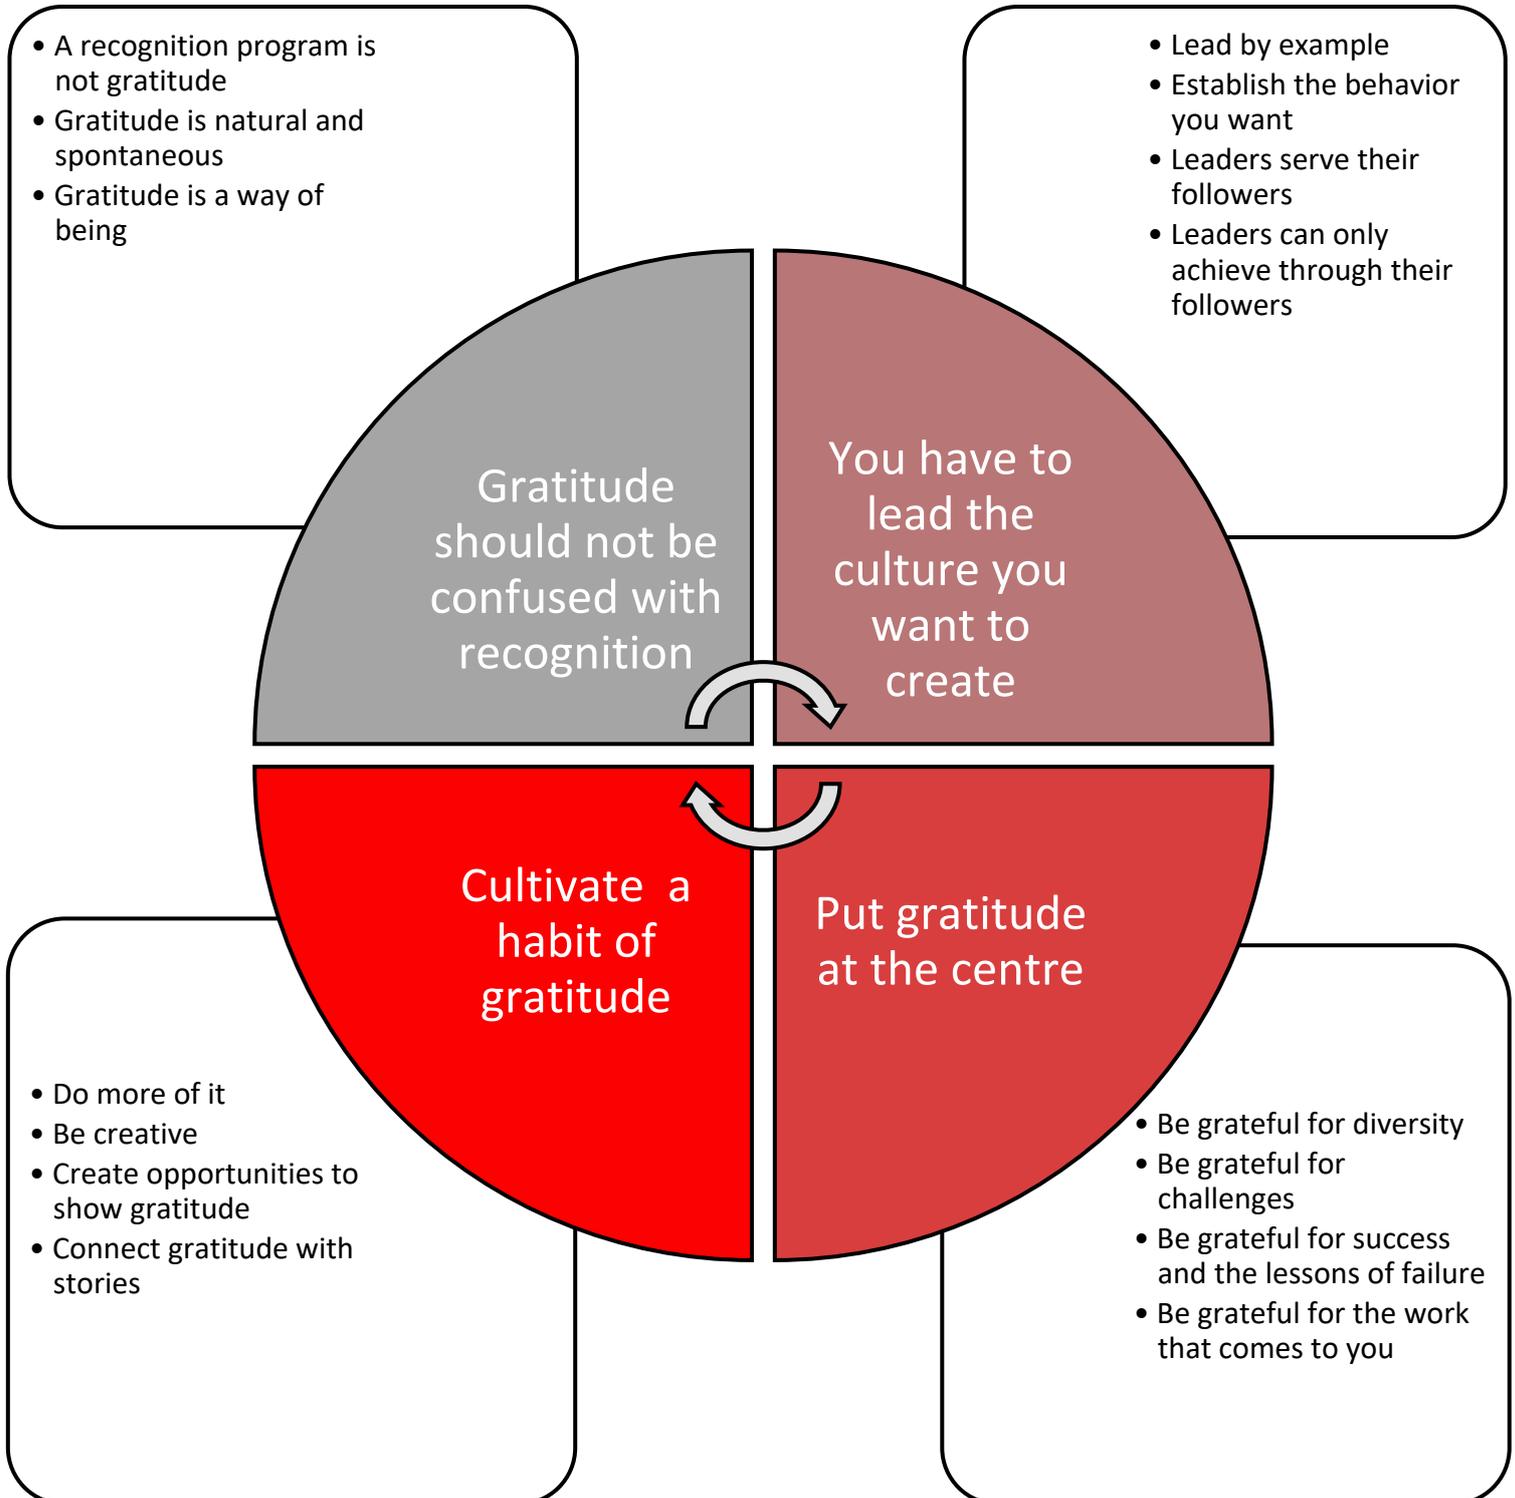

- What challenges do you face every day?
- What is most frustrating about your role?
- What areas of your role, or the organization, do you wish you knew more about?
- What skills or additional training would help you work more productively or effectively?

Encourage the coachee to hold a 1:1 discussion with each of their team to determine their individual development needs.

Recognizing other's efforts [competency]

Activity: Creating a culture of gratitude

Gratitude is one of the 24 character strengths identified by Petersen and Seligman – it is giving thanks and showing appreciation. It is core to attaining a state of happiness.

Workshop the following questions with your coachee:

What opportunities do you currently exploit to show your gratitude?

What other opportunities could you use to do so?

How do you currently show gratitude in your team?

In what other ways could you show gratitude?

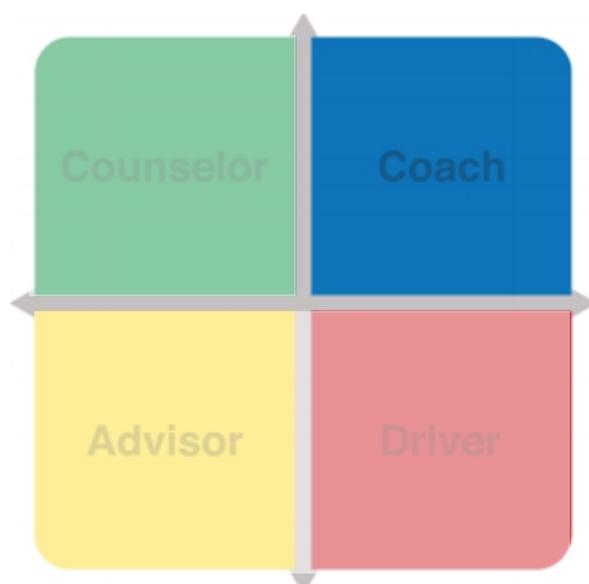

Activity: Johnny the bagger

(Note: this activity is taken from the "Identifying Differences as Opportunities" course)

This activity demonstrates the power of gratitude for both the giver and receiver. Watch the video then reflect with your coachee on what this means for them and for their workplace.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qOZPit3Ha0Y>

Grow your coachee's ability to REACH into 'Coach'

Start the conversation:

When you recognize someone could benefit from growing their REACH into Coach, listen for comments like the ones below or use these as conversation starters (ask something like “can you relate to comments like these?”) if you sense there is something, and then dig deeper (see digging deeper).

Engaging with my Colleagues

- a. There are people at work who talk a lot and jump from one thing to the next, I am finding it difficult to relate, they're always talking and missing important details, I find it frustrating.
- b. I need to engage people more effectively, I feel like I am the one left out all the time, how do I become more effective at sharing ideas and talking?

My ideas aren't heard, my plans aren't followed through, how do I get heard?

- c. I get great ideas to improve things at work, I work out all the details, but no one really seems interested, how do I get people more excited?
- d. _____ always talks more loudly than I do, and people like to follow their ideas more, how do I make things more exciting like _____ does?

I want to engage my customers better – how do I grow my coach?

- e. I am in sales, a few people I work with have a really good approach to ‘make a friend and let them buy from you’ and they sell more than I do, how can I do the same thing?
- f. I am in Customer Service and I want to have better rapport like other people do, I think it builds trust and gets better feedback scores, what can I do?

Digging Deeper

When you hit on a point that strikes a chord, it’s important to really understand the challenge, use some of the following techniques:

- Paraphrase three to five times using statements like:
“So, have I heard correctly that you find ____”?
“Have I got the most important parts if I describe the situation like this ____”?
- Ask clarifying questions when you’re confused about the facts or to fill in blanks.
- Remember, avoid problem solving or coaching, just get clear about the situation.

Opening up for REACH Growth

Try the following sequence with your coachee:

1. Remind ourselves what a ‘Coach Profile’ tends to focus on – People and Doing (to keep it simple).
4. Contrast it to your coachee’s default approach.
5. Ask your coachee to think of a time when a stronger focus on people or detail than their natural approach was important (family, sport, work teams, product design etc)

Use the specific situation to unpack the differences

Referring to the situation of concern, ask your coachee to look at why the Coach profile has benefits in this situation, here are some examples matching to different Conversation Starters above to help frame the conversations:

Conversation starter	Coach reframing questions
a) I need to engage people more effectively, I feel like I am the one left out all the time, how do I become more effective at sharing ideas and talking?	If you were going to contrast what you share and talk about, compared to how much and what other people share and talk about, what would you see as the differences? If you're uncomfortable sharing in the same ways, is there questions you can ask with genuine interest that are areas of interest for the coach (probably people or action oriented?)
b) I get great ideas to improve things at work, I work out all the details, but no one really seems interested, how do I get people more excited?	Getting people engaged with ideas is important to communicate in their style – it sounds like you have some Coach profiles you're wanting to get onboard, what type of presentation would suit them most? (details, facts, numbers, background research etc or big picture, next steps, outcomes and positive impacts on people?)
c) I am in sales, a few people I work with have a really good way to the approach 'make a friend and let them buy from you' and sell more than I do, how can I do the same thing?	The Coach communication style is to share personal things and have a people and action orientation. It's important to stay genuine, however, if you want to engage more personally, what type of personal things can you feel comfortable sharing or asking about?

Moving Forward:

Now it's time for your coachee to begin to grow their REACH, there's many options to take here, which depend on the circumstances, in general they break down to three different approaches.

1. This month when the situation arises, I am going to shift gear into 'Coach Profile' and _____ (from the conversation starter scenarios):
2. I will deliver my ideas in a way that will engage the Coach personality types; I know I have done the detailed planning, and the numbers; actually it will be useful for me to think in the way they want to hear; my plan will be more balanced if I have thought through their lens; and preparing to engage with them will help my thinking to be more complete.
3. I plan to foster open relationships with my customers/colleagues by remembering to ask _____ then share _____, so I can have more human connection with my colleagues and customers.

Set a plan

On _____ or when _____ happens I am going to _____ with a goal to _____

(Encourage reflection)

Set an expectation for review for reflection and growth

"Next session let's discuss how it went, what we can learn, and what we'll add to be more effective stretching to Coach next time"

Part 2B: Activities to develop specific Coaching skills

Depending on where your coachee is at with their confidence in applying the models, you may want to help them develop their skills by using the activities that follow. Two activities have been suggested for each competency. You and the coachee may decide to use either or both of these activities.

Building rapport [competency]

Activity: Matching and mirroring

One of the easiest ways to develop rapport is to mirror or match the other person's body language and non-verbal signals.

The next time you physically meet with your coachee, try the following exercise:

The exercise is in two parts. At the end of each part ask your coachee to answer the same two questions:

- How would you rate the level of our interaction in the last 5 minutes?
- Was there anything specific about my behavior that led to you give that rating?

Part 1

- Let the coachee assume this is a normal coaching session and continue with your coaching plan and conversation with one essential difference...
- During the next five minutes make a conscious effort not to mirror the behavior and body language of the coachee
 - If they lean forward then you lean back,
 - If they cross their arms, then you uncross yours and vice versa
 - If they put their hands behind their head, then you don't and vice versa
 - If they speak slowly, you speak faster and vice versa
- At the end of five minutes say to your coachee that you would like them to answer two simple questions. Then give the coachee the questions on a slip of paper.

Part 2

- Continue on as normal with your coaching session
- This time make a conscious effort to mirror your coachee's body language and behavior
- At the end of five minutes ask your coachee to again answer the same two questions

Debrief

In most cases your coachee will notice a qualitative difference in the interaction but may not be able to explain why. You can then discuss what you did and the power of mirroring to build rapport with another. Then ask the coachee to what extent they are aware of the influence of such behavior and whether they practice it.

Activity: Building rapport in conversation

Building rapport in conversation, if practiced, can be as natural as conversing with an old friend. The key things to keep in mind:

- Be sincere
- Be present in the conversation
- Be confident
- Be empathic
- Be honest
- Create shared experiences

You can have your coachee practice building rapport (and provide feedback to her/him) by engaging in role play.

Ask your coachee to describe a person at work who may be in their team, with whom they have difficulty conversing. Get them to describe the difficulty they have.

Now assume the role of this third person and ask the coachee to initiate a conversation. Remember to keep 'in role' and to get the coachee to explore different ways of initiating and engaging in conversation.

At the conclusion of the role play debrief the conversation reflecting on the actual person and brainstorm some practical strategies which the coachee may use to build rapport with this person. Some things to explore:

- How well the coachee listens
- Whether the coachee recognises the emotions in others and can tune into feelings and acknowledge them
- Whether the coachee uses praise and recognition for effort
- The degree to which the coachee asks open ended questions
- The degree to which the coachee knows what this person's interests are and attempts to engage in conversation around those interests

Easing tensions during conflict [competency]

Activity: Resolving internal conflict

Here is a list of strategies that team leaders can employ to resolve internal conflict:

Remove all masks.

Sincerity is the ideal mindset for conflict resolution. If we cannot achieve sincerity, at least aim for authenticity. Being authentic means not hiding behind masks but showing up as yourself.

Identify the real problem.

Often the real problem lurks somewhere behind or underneath the apparent problem. Conflict will not be resolved until the process can address the true problem.

Give up a must-win attitude.

When players compete too hard all the time, a good deal of life passes them by. They go to the wall to defend a position and will go down screaming, taking as many people with them as possible. Conflicts are not won; they are resolved.

Develop several possible solutions.

Most situations can go in a variety of directions. It may be up to you to create the choices.

Evaluate options and select a solution.

Choose the best workable choice from the possibilities you have gathered. The goal is to choose the possibility that will hold the most for both you and the other party.

Communicate in a manner certain to be received.

A great idea goes nowhere if you don't communicate it to others. Only when someone feels you have heard their message, are they ready to listen to yours, so listen actively. Communication that is full of anger, lacks clarity, and has no commitment behind it, will not bring about action.

Acknowledge and preserve the value in the relationship.

Resolving conflict is about preserving relationships. If that were not so, people would not try to resolve their conflicts. Disputes would just fester and eventually destroy the relationship.

Ask the coachee to recall a recent event that caused friction or tension amongst the team.

What did the coachee do to resolve the tension (what did they say and do and how did the team respond?)

Now move through the strategies of the previous page and ask the coachee to reflect on the difference that may have been gained in using each of the strategies.

Remove all masks
Identify the real problem
Give up must-win attitude
Develop several possible solutions
Evaluate options and select a solution
Communicate in a manner certain to be received
Acknowledge and preserve the value in the relationship

If there are strategies that the coachee believes would not work, then discuss the reasons for potential blockers to this and check the coachee's reasoning and see if there are ways of overcoming this.

Activity: Improving trust within the team

(Note: this activity is taken from the “Building Team Synergy” course)

Trust is perhaps the most important factor in easing tension among team members.

This activity is in two parts. The first part asks the coachee to take a trust pulse of their team and rate the current level of trust against a suite of behaviors. The coachee then picks the three lowest rated behaviors and discusses with the coach what they could do to improve the situation.

How would you rate (1 to 5) the current level of trust between you and your team? How do you currently demonstrate the behaviors listed?

Behaviors	How would I rate my capacity and how do I demonstrate this?	How would I rate the team's capacity and how do they demonstrate this?
To manage expectations
To establish boundaries
To delegate appropriately
To keep agreements
To be consistent
To acknowledge people's abilities and skills
To allow people to make decisions
To involve others and seek their input
To help people learn skills
To share information
To tell the truth
To admit mistakes
To give and receive constructive feedback
To maintain confidentiality
To speak with good purpose

Now pick the three behaviors with the lowest rating for you. Discuss with your coach what you could do to improve this.

Behavior	What is hindering you?	What could you do differently?

Finding opportunities for synergy [competency]

Activity: Knowing my team's strengths

(Note: this activity is taken from the "Building Team Synergy" course)

Taking opportunities for team synergy comes firstly from understanding the make-up of your team and the uniqueness that each team member brings.

Consider your work team. Spend a few minutes considering the strengths of your teammates.

Name (so that you can identify them)	What are their key strengths?	How are they currently using their strengths?	How could the team make better use of their strengths?

Did you discover that in some cases you are not fully aware of the strengths of your team? What can you do to uncover their strengths?

Activity: Sharing ownership to build synergy

Below are 10 ways that team leaders can create and share ownership among the team which in turn builds trust and respect for the uniqueness each member contributes.

1. Give employees the power to make decisions about how their job is done. When possible, give them say in the company's inner workings too.
2. Build rewards into the success of the company as well as individual departments. Make rewards based on results as well as actions.
3. Keep communication as open as possible. Share successes and failures.
4. Communication should be personal and intimate whenever possible – a meeting of 50 people with the CEO is far more effective than a newsletter or memo.
5. When you hand off a project, let go completely. Be supportive and offer advice and resources, but don't problem solve. One way to do this is to focus on the end results only, not the details.
6. Whenever possible, let people speak for themselves. If a report must be prepared or a presentation must be given, pass it off to the project owner.
7. Let employees know what the long-term plan is. Give them options for how they want to be involved through ventures like career and succession planning.
8. Encourage a holistic approach through the company. Focus on quality as well as quantity, customer satisfaction, and other emotion-based factors.
9. Invest in your employees. When possible, give them opportunities to learn and do new things. If possible, give them support to try new things – and don't say "I told you so" if it doesn't work.
10. Work on creating an atmosphere of cooperation and creativity rather than competition.

What methods do you currently use to build ownership among your team?

Rallying others around a cause [competency]

Activity: Using stories to persuade

Stories can help make your point more memorable and easier to understand, and importantly, a good story can be very powerful in persuading people.

Some important points to note on stories:

Stories must make you stand out.

Tell your story. You must find something that helps you stand out from the crowd. If there is nothing that makes your story stand out from all the others, your results won't stand out either.

Your story must be believable.

If your story is not authentic, you will not sound convincing.

Storytelling works when it makes something more.

If you believe storytelling, then you may believe that a different glass makes your wine taste better. Does food cooked in cookware endorsed by a famous chef taste better than that cooked in the same product without an endorsement? If you believe the story that comes with it, it sure does!

Have a beginning, middle, and end.

A story is not the same thing as a paragraph or an argument. A story is complete, with a beginning, middle, and an end. Using this format will help your story to be memorable and to carry your meaning.

Be conscious of the audience's attention span.

While we are wired to respond to and appreciate stories, we've also become accustomed to short messages on billboards and text messages. Remember your audience and think about capturing their attention without giving them license to be distracted as you deliver your message.

Now have your coachee construct a story on the next page.

Think of something that you want to convince your team of or something you want them to feel deeply. It could be related to the organization's vision, strategy, an event that has happened, the organization's purpose and how everyone can fulfil it, the team's recent performance, behavior that you are calling out – it can be anything as long as it is meaningful.

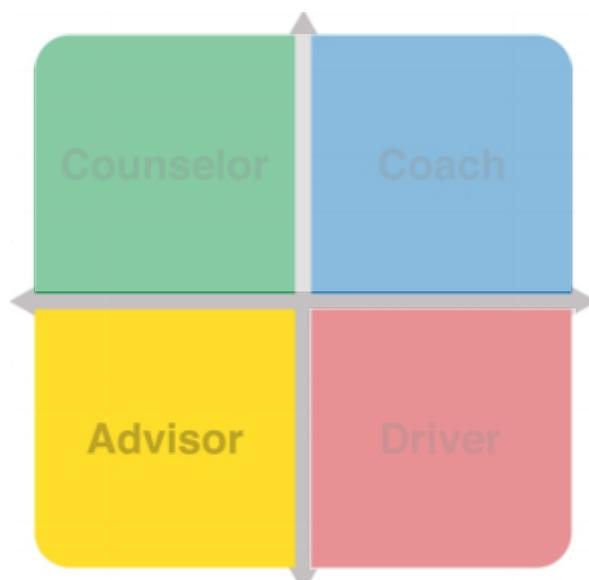

Use the space below to plan what you want to say, listing down persuasive words or phrases that you want to include. What stories have you heard that can inspire your own story? What story will you tell to help influence your team's decision or influence their thinking?

Activity: Applying the principles of influence

Discuss with your coachee Robert Cialdini's five universal principles of influence and how your coachee currently applies them and how else they might apply them.

Principle	How I currently apply this principle	What else I could do to apply this principle
Reciprocation: People are more willing to do something for you if you have already done something for them first. To put reciprocity into action, give people something for free.
Commitment: You cannot get people to commit to you or your vision if they don't see your commitment. Once you provide a solid, consistent example, they will feel they have to do the same.
Authority: If people believe you know what you are talking about and accept your expertise, they are far more likely to follow you.
Social Validation: As independent as we like to consider ourselves, we love to be part of a crowd. People will always jump on a bandwagon if their friends like the band.
Friendship: People listen to their friends. If they know you and like you, they are far more likely to support you. More than one leader has been abandoned at the first sign of trouble because they were not very well liked.

Grow your coachee's ability to REACH into 'Advisor'

Start the conversation:

When you recognize someone could benefit from growing their REACH into Advisor, listen for comments like the ones below or use these as conversation starters (ask something like “can you relate to comments like these?”) if you sense there is something, and then dig deeper (see digging deeper).

Engaging with my Colleagues

- There are people in the team who always ask more questions when I am explaining something, I find it like they are trying to catch me out by asking questions I haven't even thought about – what do I do about it?
- _____ in my office is really quiet, since we don't talk much I always feel very demanding asking them to do things that are needed, how can I have a better relationship with him so I feel like we are on the same page?

My ideas aren't heard, my plans aren't followed through, how do I get heard?

- I get great ideas to improve things at work, I can envisage where it can take us, I'm happy to work out the details as we go, but everyone always seems to push back or criticize me, how do I bring everyone on board with me?
- I do so much preparation to prove I have really thought things through, but when I go to present things, people kind of lose interest and seem to pay me lip service, where am I going wrong, do they all think I am stupid?

I want to engage my customers better – how do I grow my Advisor?

- e. I have customers who do so much research and talk about so many details like, ‘when we spoke at 2:30pm on July 22, you said that there was.....’ it makes me feel like they are checking up on me, or recording everything we say to catch me out, it gets under my skin, what do I do?
- f. I am in Customer Service and I have certain customers who call me and begin covering all the details about the situation that aren’t even relevant to me helping them. I need them to get to the point, sometimes they give me so much stuff the hardest part of the job is to work out which bits of information I need and which parts aren’t relevant. What do I need to do to get the information I need to help them without being rude?

Digging Deeper

When you hit on a point that strikes a chord, it’s important to really understand the challenge, use some of the following techniques:

- Paraphrase three to five times using statements like:
 - “So, have I heard correctly that you find ____”?
 - “Have I got the most important parts if I describe the situation like this ____”?
- Ask clarifying questions when you’re confused about the facts or to fill in blanks.
- Remember, avoid problem solving or coaching, just get clear about the situation.

Opening up for REACH Growth

Try the following sequence with your coachee:

1. Remind ourselves what an ‘Advisor Profile’ tends to focus on – Details and Tasks (to keep it simple).
2. Contrast it to your coachee’s default approach.
3. Ask your coachee to think of a time when a stronger focus on people or detail than their natural approach was important (family, sport, work teams, product design etc).

Use the specific situation to unpack the differences

Referring to the situation of concern, ask your coachee to look at why the Advisor profile has benefits in this situation? Here are some examples matching to different Conversation Starters above to help frame the conversations:

Conversation starter	Coach reframing questions
a) _____ since we don't talk much, I always feel very demanding asking them to do things that are needed, how can I have a better relationship with him, so I feel like we are on the same page?	If you were going to reflect on what the Advisor does like to talk about, how could you work on building your relationship by focussing on the things they are comfortable sharing about, rather than leading with the topics you usually do? Can you help me by sharing how things go, and what the person works on?
b) I do so much preparation to prove I have really thought things through, but when I go to present things, people kind of lose interest and seem to pay me lip service, where am I going wrong, do they all think I am stupid?	If you were to approach what you communicated, specifically thinking about your audience and their style, is there anything else you would change? If you thought about someone with an alternate profile – maybe a Coach – would they be able to give you an alternate perspective that would give a different outcome, and help you understand how they see things earlier in the process? Maybe there is someone who you could ask for help in presenting your idea, who would they be, how would you engage them?
c) I have customers who do so much research and talk about so many details like, 'when we spoke at 2:30pm on July 22, you said that there was.....' it makes me feel like they are checking up on me, or recording everything we say to catch me out, it gets under my skin, what do I do?	If you had a customer focused on details, could you frame a conversation early that focused their needs – there's some really important details I need to get this right for you, can I work with you to discover those ones specifically? The context doesn't matter, we're talking about framing the style of approach – detail oriented and sharing with them that you are seeking the important details to help.

Moving Forward:

Now it's time for your coachee to begin to grow their REACH, there's many options to take here, which will depend on the circumstances, in general they break down to three different approaches:

1. This month when the situation arises, I am going to shift gear into 'Advisor Profile' or reach to connect with Advisor Profiles and _____ (see below from the conversation starter scenarios):
2. Deliver my ideas in a way that will engage the Advisors by coming from a detailed approach, collaborate with the advisors on my team early to get detailed thinking that doesn't come naturally to me, etc
3. Open relationships with my customers/colleagues by remembering to ask _____ then share _____ so I can have more human connection with my colleagues and customers.

Set a plan

On _____ or when _____ happens I am going to _____ with a goal to _____

Encourage reflection

Set an expectation for review for reflection and growth

"Next session let's discuss how it went, what we can learn, and what we'll add to be more effective stretching to Advisor next time"

Part 2C: Activities to develop specific Advising skills

Depending on where your coachee is at with their confidence in applying the models, you may want to help them develop their skills by using the activities that follow. Two activities have been suggested for each competency. You and the coachee may decide to use either or both of these activities.

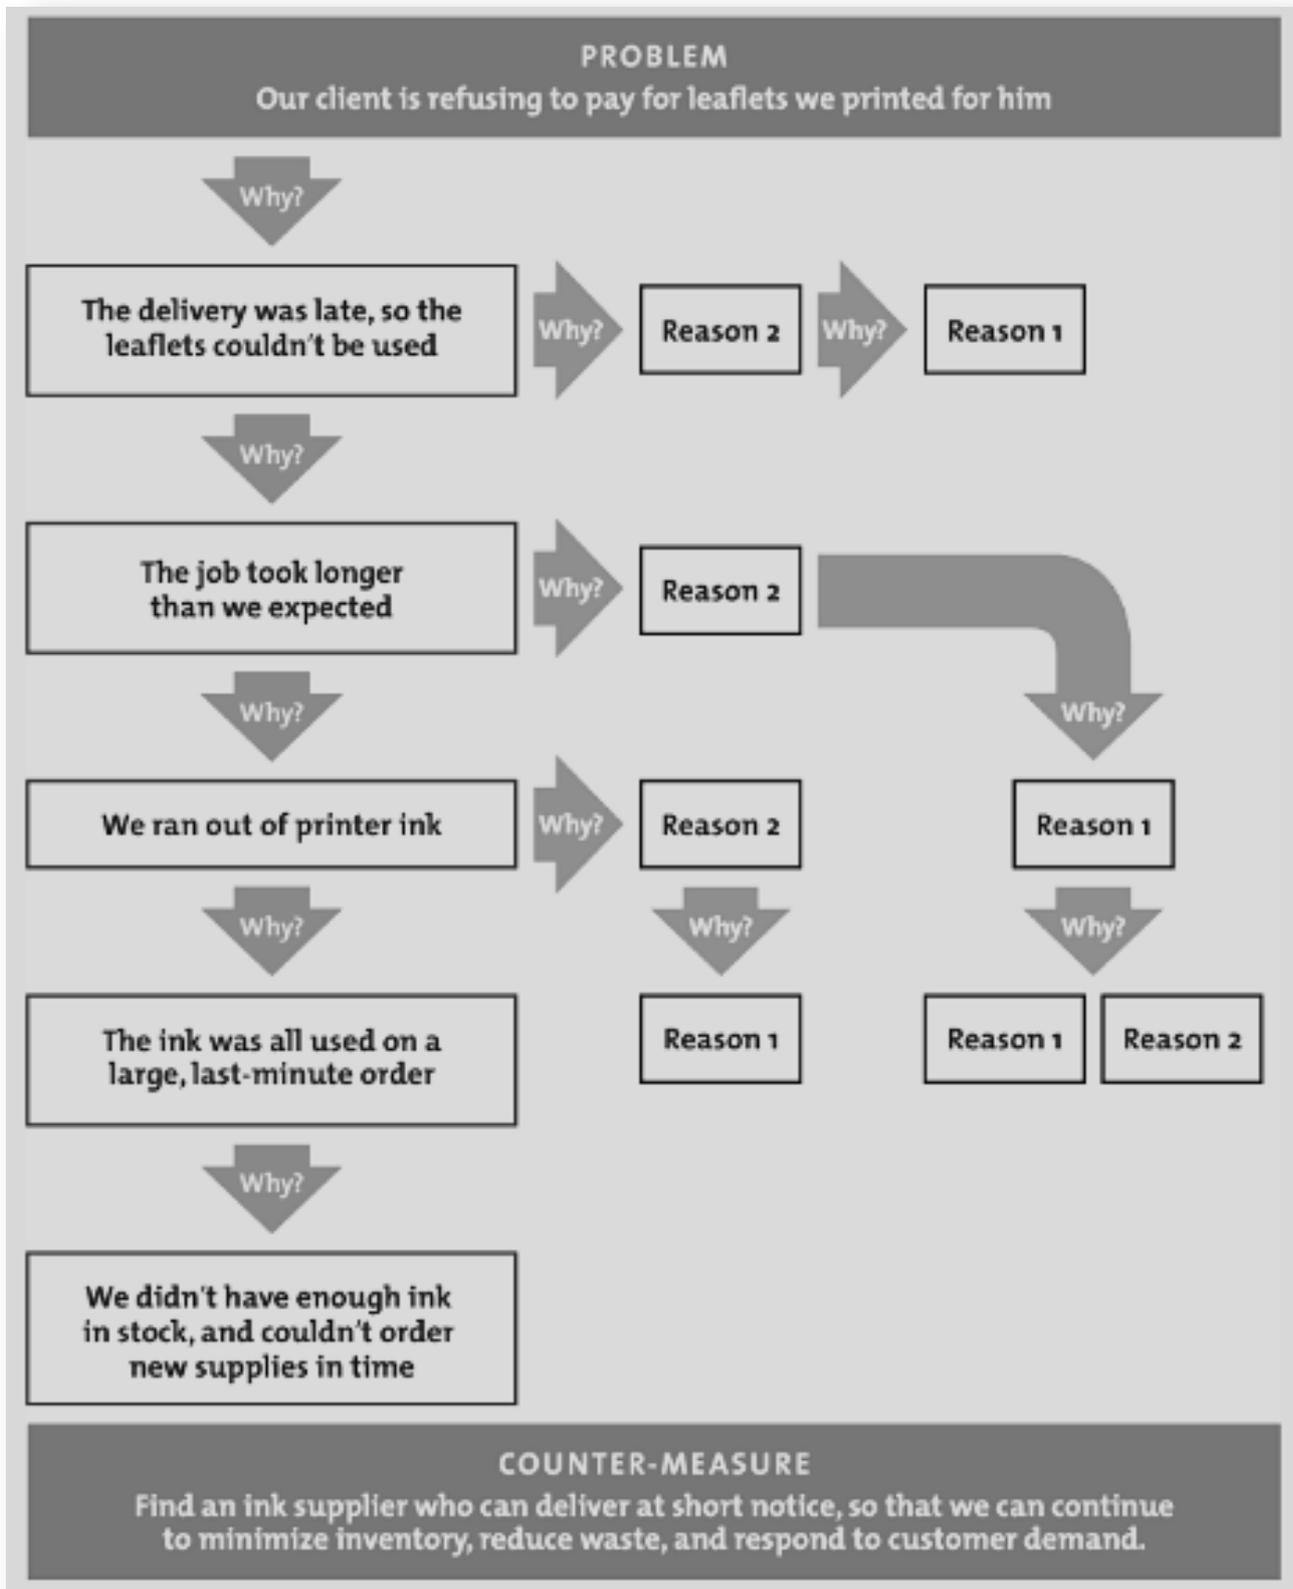

Addressing quality concerns [competency]

Activity: Using the 5 Why's technique

The 5 Why's technique is used in troubleshooting and quality improvement. It was developed by Sakichi Toyoda in the 1930s, one of the fathers of the Japanese industrial revolution. It is used to get to the root of a problem so that you can understand it better before attempting to develop a solution. The steps are:

- Define the problem
- Ask the first "Why?"
- Ask "Why" up to four more times
- Know when to stop
- Address the root cause

See example next page:

Use the space below to apply the 5 Why technique to a coachee quality issue:

Activity: Creating a culture of quality

The four key elements for creating a culture of quality are:

1. Leadership emphasis – quality is always a priority of leadership and quality is always emphasized when evaluating employee performance
2. Message credibility – messages about quality must be consistent and readily understood (keep it brief and to the point)
3. Peer involvement – quality is always part of the team discussion and team members hold each other accountable for quality
4. Employee ownership – employees are empowered to make quality decisions

Discuss with your coachee the extent to which they are acting as a steward for quality culture.

What are they currently doing?

What do they need to do more of?

What do they need to do less of?

Aligning resources with needs [competency]

Activity: Using a RACI chart

A RACI chart is an excellent way to outline who is responsible for what during a project or task. To start, create a chart with tasks listed on the left-hand side, and resources listed across the top. You then assign a letter in each cell to describe a resources responsibility in relation to a task.

The letters are:

R: Responsible for execution of the task

A: Responsible for Approval of the task

C: Consult with this person

I: Keep this person Informed

Example:

	Sue	Bob	Joe	Jane
Build widget plan	A	R	I	I
Build widget	R	A	C	I
Ship widget to customers	I	I	I	R

Ask the coachee to produce a RACI chart whenever they need to assign resources to a project or task.

Activity: Picking the right person when delegating

Discuss task delegation with your coachee and that thought needs to be given to who is best placed to take on the delegated tasks – so that people are set up for success (and challenge) and not failure.

Ask your coachee to think of a task then answer the following questions:

1. Who among your team could take care of elements of your job?
 - a) Who has the right skillset, strength?
 - b) Who has the time opportunity?
 - c) Who is willing and wanting to learn new skills to grow?

2. What authority and preparation would the person selected need?

3. How good a job would the person do?

4. Do I need to train this person? (or can I delegate this too?)

+++++

Selling the delegated responsibility to a team member.

The best way to influence someone to take on a task is to let them know WIIFM (What's In It For Me). Why did you choose them? What are they going to learn out of doing this task?

Ask your coachee to consider the task from the first part of this activity and the person they would like to delegate the task to. Have them role play the WIIFM sell to you, then give your coachee feedback on how they went.

Designing team structure/function [competency]

Activity: Clear roles and assignments

A characteristic of high performing teams is clear roles and assignments. This is facilitated by making sure that each team member understands what they are to do, and how what they do fits into the bigger picture. It also means that work is distributed fairly throughout the team, and action plans are completed.

A way for your coachee to understand if their team is clear on their roles and assignments is to ask them. They can use the table below (and amend it if desired) to survey their team. You can then discuss what the results may mean.

Area	Explanation	Rating (1-10[highest])
Work Methods	Understanding our leader's expectations regarding required work methods and procedures when completing jobs or projects.
Time Frames	Understanding due dates for the completion of projects; determining when dates have slipped and which completion dates are final and non-negotiable.
Work Responsibilities	Understanding each team member's role when we are assigned to a given job or responsibility.
Customer/Supplier Interface	Understanding our leader's expectations when dealing with supplier problems or customer complaints or requests; understanding how far we should go to build effective relationships with other work groups.
Work Priorities	Understanding which jobs take priority and the changes in work priorities; being able to clearly differentiate between hot jobs and other jobs.
Performance Expectations	Understanding what our leader expects in the way of desired outcomes, what it means to do a good job, and the degree of effort we are expected to put into a job (as opposed to overworking low-priority jobs).
Resources	Understanding what resources (facilities, support staff, equipment, software, and budget) have been allocated to perform a job and how much control we have over resource decisions.

Activity: The best structure for my team

Team structures will vary depending on what functions and outcomes the team is to do and achieve. Discuss the following structures with your coachee and whether the current team structure best suits the needs of the organization, or alternatively which structure best suits a future team.

Team structures can be classified as:

- Problem solving team – this team is assembled as required to solve problems with each team member actively contributing ideas and being involved in the decision
- Self-managed team – empowered to solve problems and implement solutions and being responsible for the outcomes
- Cross-functional team – where team members come together from different business functions within an organization contributing their individual expertise
- Virtual team – where team members collaborate virtually especially when teams are physically dispersed
- Bureaucratic team – team is built around routine tasks and rules and decision making follows a change of command
- Matrix structure – combines function as well as product/service. Team members often report to two people one being a functional manager and the other a product manager

Ask your coachee which team structures are present in their workplace.

Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of each type of team structure.

Integrating diverse perspectives [competency]

Activity: Behaviors that value diversity

Below is a table that lists a number of behaviors that leaders can demonstrate to show they value diversity and inclusion.

Ask	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Ask people about their views, needs or wants rather than assuming you know how they feel• Seek advice if you feel uncomfortable about how to deal with a situation
Listen	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Listen to what people are saying – hear the unspoken messages as well as the words• Give people time to talk to you and to explain how things feel for them
Involve	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Include people in your plans, explain what you would like to do and establish the impact this has on them• Seek the views and suggestions of other people rather than assuming you know what's best for them• Include people – don't let people feel that they are an outsider
Confront Inequality	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Speak up if you see inequality taking place, challenge discrimination and let others know it is unacceptable• Confront unacceptable behavior at someone else's expense – jokes, innuendo, fun-poking, etc• Challenge your own beliefs and stereotypes – Where do they come from? Are they valid?
Value People	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Recognize the uniqueness of each individual and seek ways to add value by using their individual strengths, creativity and insight• Encourage other people to achieve, help them realize their full potential• Treat each person as an individual - don't let damaging stereotypes cloud your attitudes to others• Recognize other people's need to find a balance between work / life and support them in achieving that balance
Develop your Awareness	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Become aware of your own views and attitudes and how these affect your behavior towards others• Become more aware of the values and beliefs of others and how this affects their behavior

Ask your coachee to review the behaviors listed and to rate which of these they personally demonstrates the least. Similarly ask the coachee to reflect on which of these behaviors the team demonstrates the least.

Now brainstorm some ideas that the coachee can use with their team to build a more inclusive culture – both personal behaviors and behaviors they would like to develop in their team.

Behaviors the coachee would like to develop in themselves:

The behavior I wish to develop	Steps to achieve this

Behaviors the coachee would like to develop in the team:

The behavior the team needs to develop	Steps to achieve this

Activity: Qualities of an effective facilitator

The facilitator is the person that guides a group towards a decision and allows all members in the group the opportunity to contribute and argue for their ideas. They do this by:

- designing an effective process
- acting consistently with core values
- identifying when group members have acted inconsistently (or consistently)
- letting the group make free and informed choices through the intervention of the facilitator

The four qualities of effective facilitation are:

1. Trustworthy
2. Curious
3. Assertive
4. Neutral

Why are each of these qualities necessary for effective facilitation and what do each of these mean for your coachee? Which of these qualities does your coachee need to develop further and how?

Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others

Module 8: Facilitating REACH (weeks 20-21)

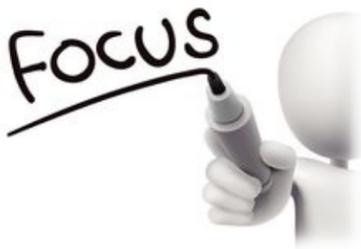

Module 8: Facilitating REACH (weeks 20-21)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Communication Profile
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

Your focus in Module 8 is on:

- Developing your coachee's ability to facilitate REACH conversations with their colleagues
- Check in on goals identified in previous sessions and progress to date. Use the GROW model for each of them to develop steps for actions prior to the next session

Part 1: Reviewing the Fundamentals of REACH

By now your coachee will be familiar with the REACH concept and REACH frameworks and will be talking about different people by personality style (Coach, Driver, Advisor, Counselor) and they will most likely be seeing the impacts of being aware of the different styles and approaches and recognize the stronger connections and positive impacts they have by being more mindful and adaptable (their REACH will be growing)

Some coachees will be focused on personal growth, some will be exclusively looking through a work lens.

Depending on their focus, they will be feeling by this stage that they usually are longing for the opportunity to have the same conversation using the same frameworks and awareness with people around them like they have with you.

It's great timing to offer a 60-90 minute session (at work or at home) on the fundamentals of REACH.

To run one of these sessions successfully, each person involved will complete the REACH (once again, no additional cost to you as an REACH subscriber), then you can use the Team Awareness activity that's been built as a lunch 'n learn type session.

You have all the resources available to you, and this will help your coachee have more connected relationships with people in all areas of their life.

Part 2: Guide to facilitating a REACH Session

Once the Coachee has revisited the fundamentals of REACH, they will be ready to attempt facilitating similar sessions with their colleagues. This section contains an outline of how the coachee might approach this. It is suggested that they facilitate a 1:1 session before attempting any group sessions.

The format for a 1:1 session is not dissimilar from the same pathway the coachee has taken during their own REACH development.

Some points to impress upon the coachee in their facilitator role:

- You are to facilitate understanding of the concepts of REACH through guided discussion
- A person's profile is determined by the interaction of their achieving and relating dimensions the degree to which is determined by a person's self-rating based on their survey responses
- Each of the four profiles offers its own key strengths, and no profile is better than the others
- While a person may be most comfortable acting within their own profile, they can learn to 'stretch' to the other profiles over time through observing and practicing the markers provided in their report
- Honesty, transparency and confidentiality is best established through the coachee (as the facilitator) revealing their own report to the other person and discussing what this has meant for them in both understanding it and using the coaching insights to develop their REACH into other profiles

A suggested sequence of steps in a facilitated session is given on the next page.

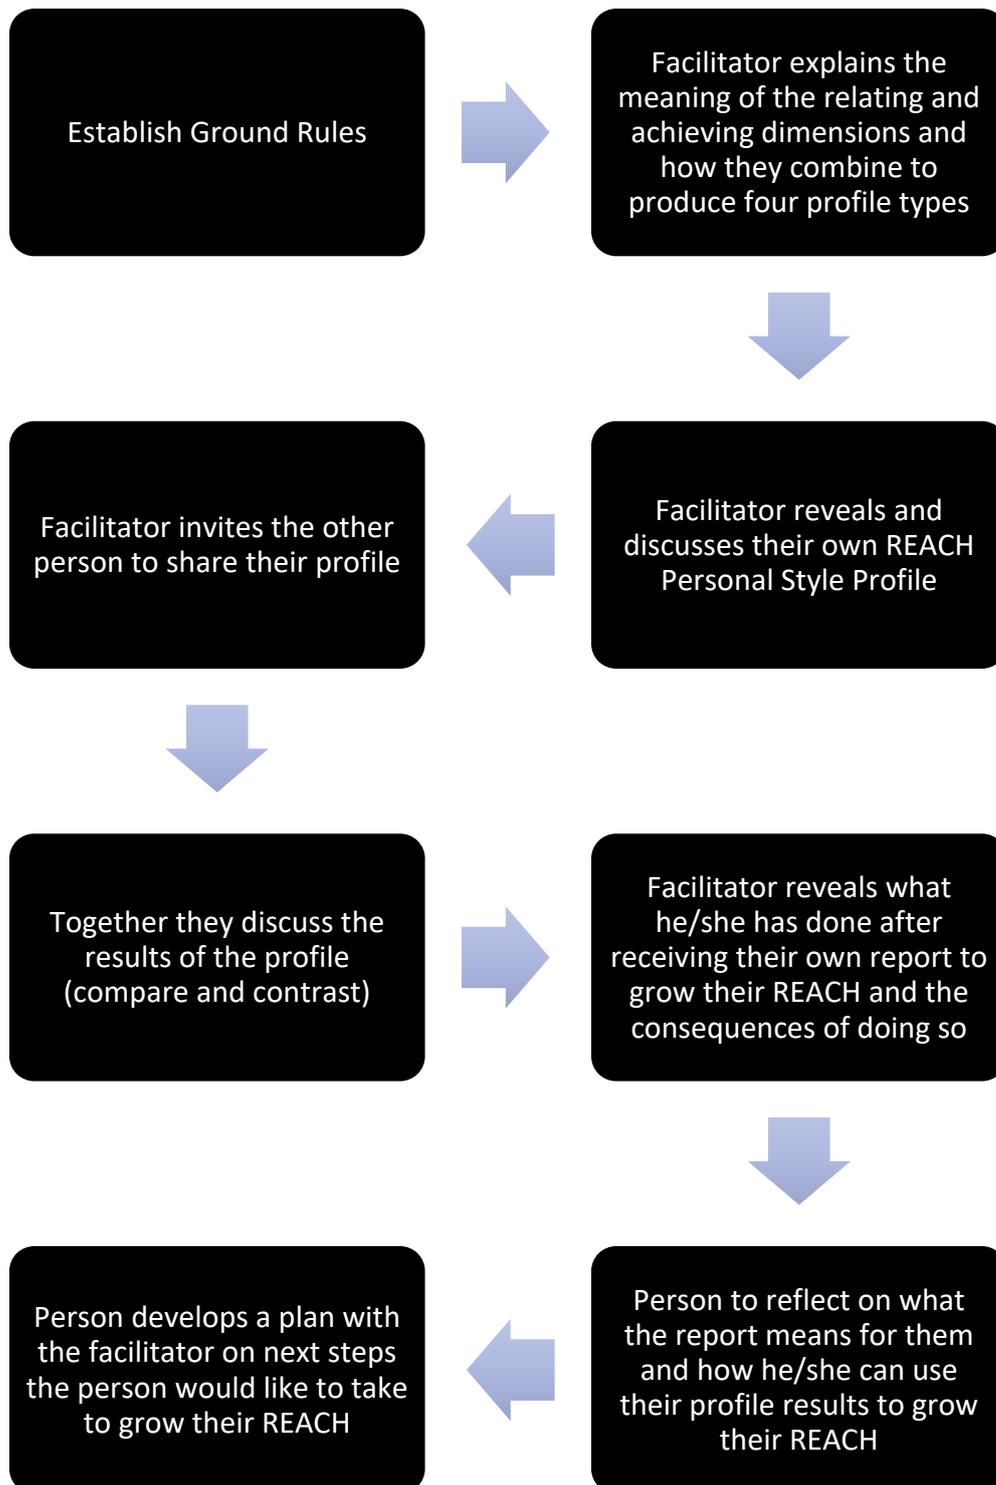

Part 3: For the next meeting

Invite the coachee to facilitate a 1:1 REACH session with one of the colleagues.

Conclude by adopting the GROW process:

- What will be the Goal in planning a 1:1 session?
- Can the coachee identify any obstacles?
- What next steps can the coachee take to remove those obstacles?

Plan to debrief the coachee's facilitated session when you next meet.

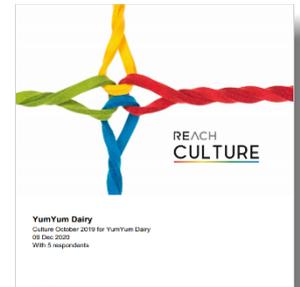

Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others

Module 9: Creating a REACH Culture

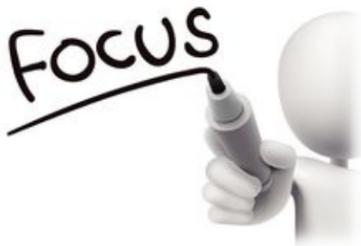

Module 9: Creating a REACH Culture (weeks 22-23)

What you will need:

- A suitable, confidential environment
- A printed, color copy of the coachee's REACH Culture Survey report
- Materials for notetaking and sharing the actions to be accomplished before next meeting

Your focus in Module 9 is on:

- Developing an understanding of the REACH Culture Survey results
- Developing an understanding of the linkages between an individual's REACH and REACH360 and their contribution to and influence on the overall culture
- Developing action steps based on the findings in the culture survey
- Check in on goals identified in previous sessions and progress to date. Use the GROW model for each of them to develop steps for actions prior to the next session

Part 1: Developing an understanding the REACH Culture Survey

When you have more senior coachees, there are opportunities early in your relationship or later (like now) to introduce REACH Culture Surveys to the organization they work in. By introducing this tool, your coachee will see how the framework and mindset affects people right across the organization or within their direct team and will generally lead to a greater commitment to growing their REACH to maximize the positive impact on the organization more broadly.

Purpose of the REACH Culture Survey

The REACH Culture Survey report reveals the extent to which a REACH culture is promoted within the organization. Team members were asked to evaluate each cultural element by rating specific skills that could be demonstrated by team leaders. Each competency was rated on a 5-point scale, with scores provided on the pages that follow. Additionally, team members were encouraged to provide optional comments to describe how they perceive leaders' effectiveness in promoting specific elements of a REACH culture.

Within the REACH framework, higher ratings are indicative of a workplace where team members are more fully engaged and better positioned to achieve higher performance outcomes. Where a cultural element is rated as less effective, leaders should be encouraged to initiate candid conversations regarding opportunities for improvement. Through ongoing training, development, and coaching, any organization can cultivate a REACH culture - while gaining the 'productive people advantage' to thrive in today's workplace.

The second part of the survey asks respondents specific questions about how they view the work environment – how they describe its 'outlook' and the extent to which they have a genuine commitment to the organization through such constructs as:

- Work enjoyment
- Respect for leadership
- That the work/team makes an impact
- Value offered by the organization
- A willingness to remain

REACH Quotient for the organization.

This part of the survey measures the extent to which the leadership of the organization is:

- Supportive
- Inspirational
- Directive
- Consultative

Engagement Index

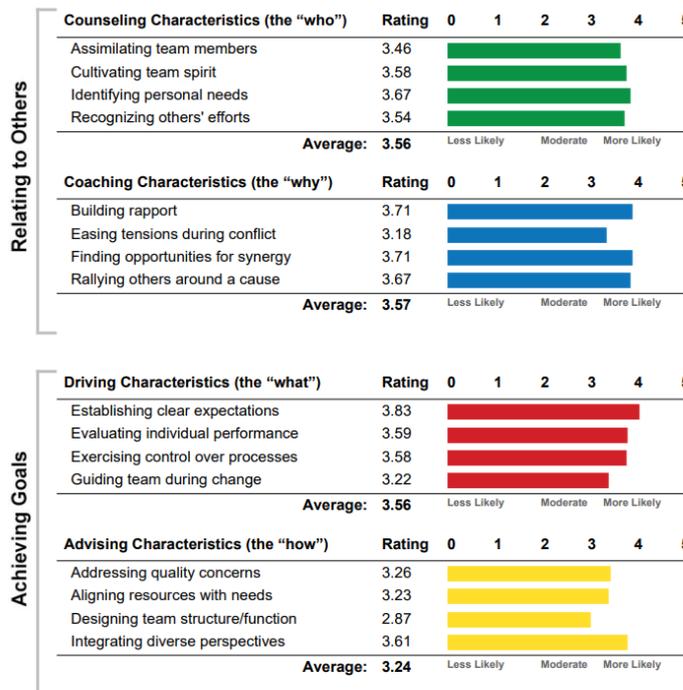

The Outlook rating provides additional information for the leadership on the extent to which employees will continue to turn up and commit their efforts to the organization.

Characteristic	Rating	0	1	2	3	4	5	Hi	Lo
Recommend this organization	4.20	[Progress bar]					5	4
Enjoy our work	4.20	[Progress bar]					5	4
Respect our team leaders	4.20	[Progress bar]					5	3
Team has a measurable impact	4.20	[Progress bar]					5	2
Organization offers value	4.40	[Progress bar]					5	4
We intend to remain here	4.20	[Progress bar]					5	4
Engagement Index:	4.23	Less Likely		Moderate		More Likely

The engagement is the result of the employee experience – how well the leaders do the “Who, Why, What and How in leading and managing the team.

The REACH Quotient is the average score across these four areas. The example below highlights the Directive area as being the one which is in most need of improvement.

REACH Quotient: 3.49 out of 5.00

The survey then looks at each competency cluster separately including the comments raters have made. The skills in each cluster are the same as those in the individual REACH360 report.

Part 2: Linking the REACH Culture Survey to the REACH360

A review of your coachee's REACH360 will show where they are contributing to the overall REACH culture of the organization as the example below demonstrates.

First consider the 'Directive' dimension of the organization:

Directive Culture Characteristics

REACHing with a Driving Style

Focus: "Are team members focused on meeting and exceeding expectations?"

Participants were asked to evaluate the extent to which the organization provides a focused and directive environment. A directive culture is most recognized for driving team members to comply with expectations and meet timely performance goals. When the organization encourages this cultural characteristic effectively, its leaders focus on answering the "what" questions to ensure that team members are focused and accountable in pursuing desired outcomes.

Participants were asked to evaluate the extent to which the following characteristics, often associated with a directive team environment, are demonstrated within the organizational culture.

Characteristic	Rating	0	1	2	3	4	5	Hi	Lo
Establishing clear expectations	3.83						5	2
Evaluating individual performance	3.59						5	2
Exercising control over processes	3.58						5	2
Guiding team during change	3.22						5	1
Average	3.56	Less Likely		Moderate		More Likely

Now consider the REACH360 of one of its leaders:

Profile Comparison		Combined Rating	0	1	2	3	4	5
Counseling Competencies	Self	2.21
	Raters	2.38
Coaching Competencies	Self	2.93
	Raters	2.96
Driving Competencies	Self	4.29
	Raters	4.17
Advising Competencies	Self	3.11
	Raters	3.00

Even though in our example the Directive Characteristics of the organization scored lowest (3.04), our sample leader has a combined rating of 4.29 which means they are doing more than most leaders to contribute to a directive culture.

If we look at the counselling skills of our sample leader, with a combined rating of 2.21, and compare that with the average rating for Supportive Characteristics of the Organization at 3.47, we notice a considerable gap.

This sort of comparison provides a conversation starter for yourself and the coachee:

- What are the areas for improvement that the Culture Survey highlights?
- How are you currently contributing to an optimal REACH culture for the organization?
- How will an improvement in your REACH impact the organization's REACH quotient?
- How can you assist other leader's in the organization to grow their REACH and through that the REACH of the organization or team/

Part 3: Developing an Action Plan

Work with your coachee to identify which aspect of the REACH Culture Survey they would like to focus on and developing an action plan with them. Your coachee may decide to focus on the 'Outlook' characteristics. For example, if there was a concern about staff turnover, you could discuss how the coachee might be able to explore possible causes, explore the relationship with REACH and identify some steps they could take to improve staff turnover. The approach may be staged:

1. Investigate issue
2. Discuss strategies to resolve
3. Determine which strategies to pursue
4. Develop strategies into actions plans
5. Resource and Implement
6. Measure and Evaluate

Alternatively, the coachee may decide that the long-term goal when the REACH Culture Survey is next taken is to improve the organizational REACH score by "X" or to improve a particular characteristic.

A template for planning is included on the next page.

Strategy:
Objective:
Completion date:
Step	Resources Required	Personnel involved	Expected completion date

Part 4: For the next meeting

Conclude by adopting the GROW process:

- What will be the goals in implementing the action plan?
- Can the coachee identify any obstacles?
- What next steps can the coachee take to remove those obstacles?

Cluster 3: Developing REACH in others

Module 10: Multiplying REACH (weeks 24-25)

Module 10: Multiplying REACH (weeks 24-25)

At this milestone, it's great to review the progress, challenges and resources you have used together with your coachee through the year, and for you personally to reflect on your personal and professional growth through the journey.

Look over the suggested months here and see if there are opportunities to use some of the resources in this last month to continue the growth of your coachee and to further expand and deepen your opportunities to help them or their organization or family grow.

REACH Growth Progress Check-in

Now is a great moment to check in on REACH growth, ask your coachee to re-take their REACH Survey and have a chat around their growth, Self-awareness and future direction.

Some questions to explore:

- Where have they seen the most improvement in themselves since starting this coaching journey?
- What has changed in the nature of their relationships?
- What have been the most challenging aspects of personal growth?
- What wisdom have they received from others?
- What wisdom have they imparted to others?
- How have they seen their teams and their organization impacted by growing their REACH and through the organization as a whole improving its REACH?
- What are the next important growth steps they would like to take?
- How are they looking to positively impact the lives of others by coaching others in optimizing their REACH?

You have guided your coachee through a powerful growth journey.
Reflect together on your journey, shared learnings and your path forward.

Appendices

Appendix A: GROW Model

Background of the GROW Model

GROW was influenced by the Inner Game method developed by Timothy Gallwey (Performance Consultants International). Gallwey was a tennis coach who noticed that he could often see what players were doing incorrectly, but that simply telling them what they should be doing did not bring about lasting change.

The parallel between Gallwey's Inner Game method and the GROW method can be illustrated by the example of players who do not keep their eyes on the ball. Some coaches might give instructions such as: 'Keep your eye on the ball' to try to correct this. The problem with this sort of instruction is that a player will be able to follow it for a short while but may be unable to keep it in mind in the long term. So, one day, instead of giving an instruction, Gallwey asked players to say 'bounce' out loud when the ball bounced and 'hit' out loud when they hit the ball.

The result was that the players started to improve without a lot of effort because they were keeping their eyes on the ball. But because of the way the instruction was given they did not have a voice in their heads saying "I must keep my eye on the ball." Instead they were playing a simple game while they were playing tennis. Once Gallwey saw how play could be improved in this way, he stopped giving instructions and started asking questions that would help players discover for themselves what worked and what needed to change.

The GROW method is similar. For example, the first stage in the learning process would be to set a target which a player wants to achieve. If a player wanted to improve their first serve, Gallwey would ask how many first serves out of ten they would like to get in. This is the Goal. The Reality would be defined by asking the player to serve 10 balls and seeing how many first serves went in.

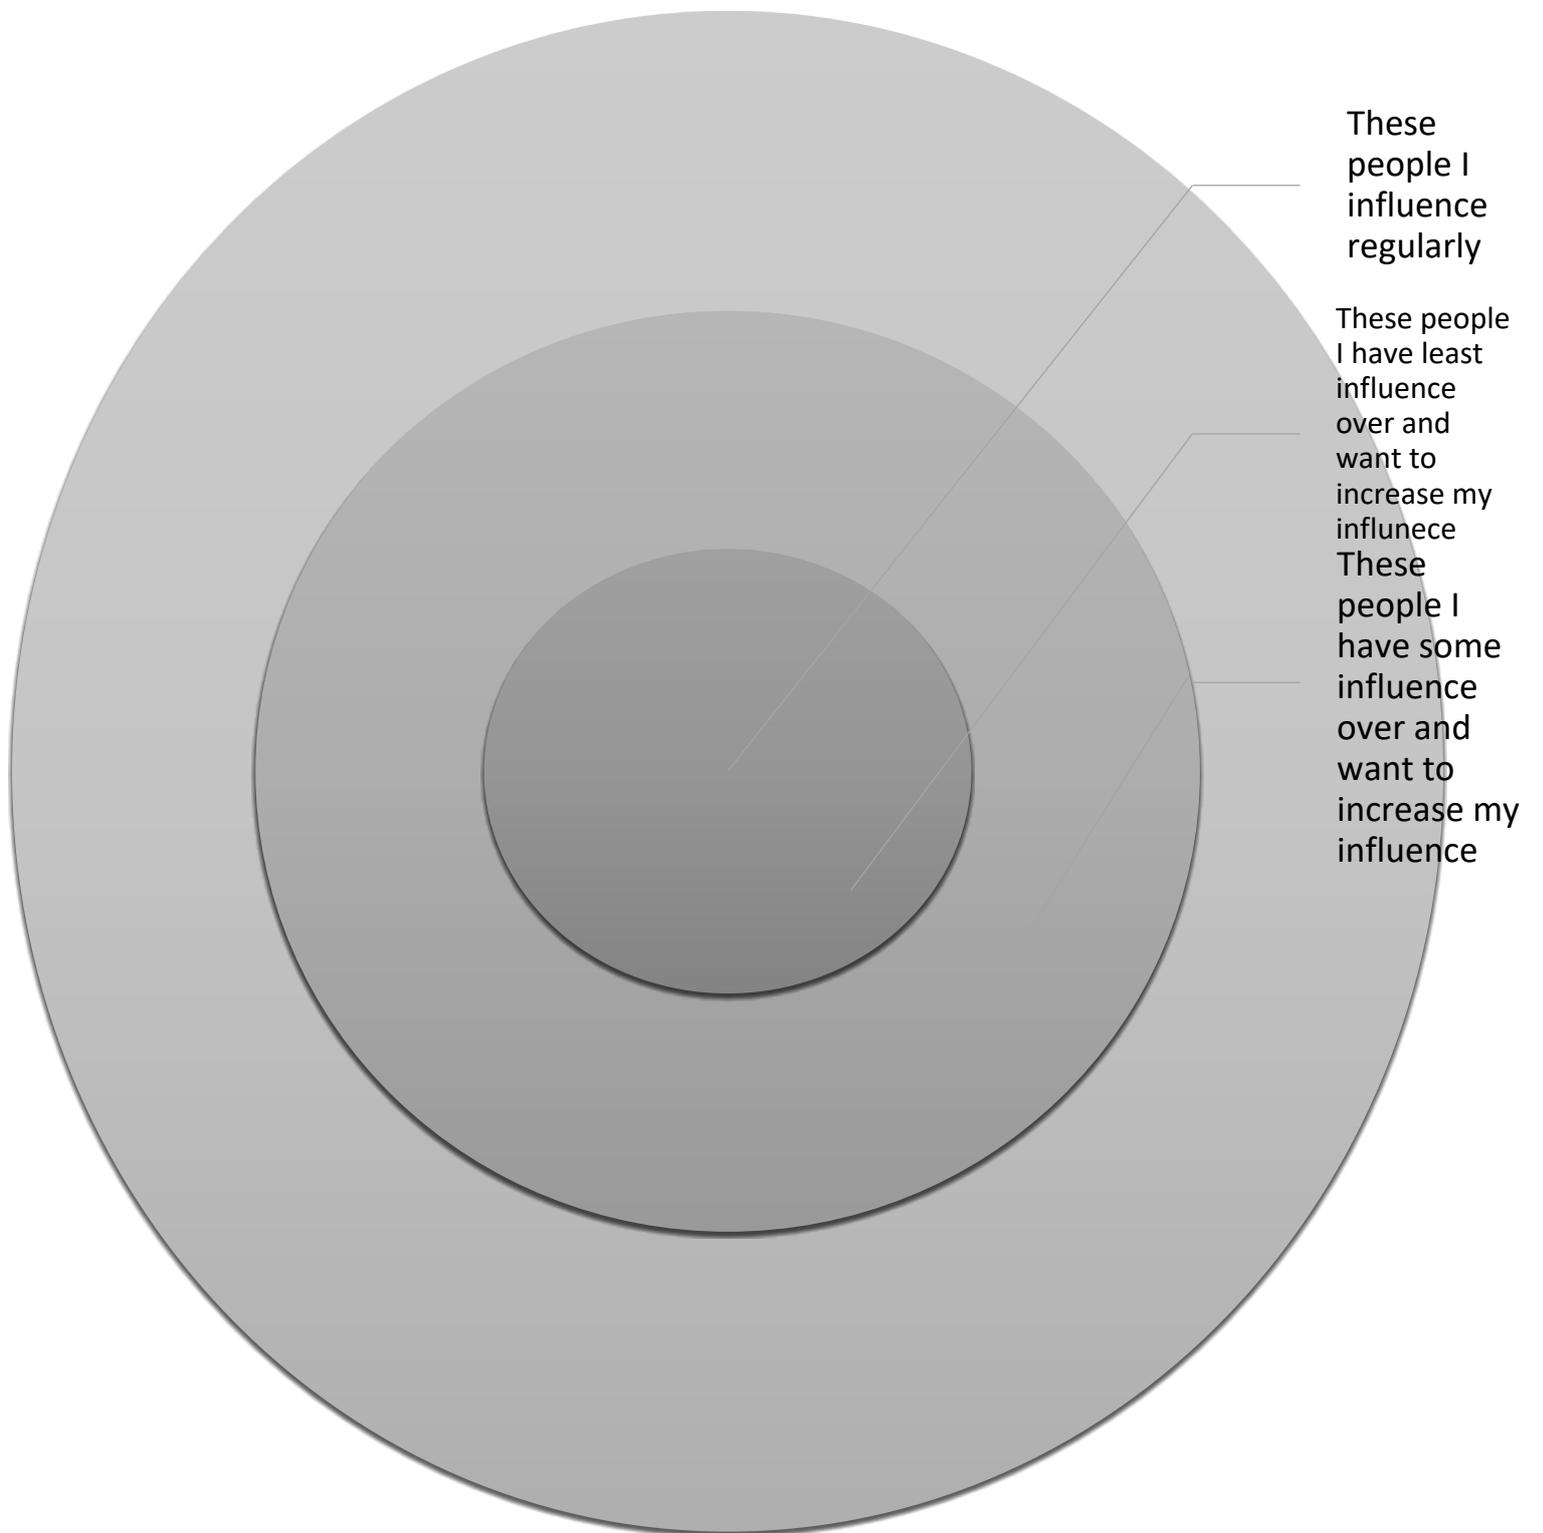

Gallwey would then ask awareness-raising questions such as "What do you notice you are doing differently when the ball goes in or out?" This question would enable players to discover for themselves what was changing about their mind and body when the serve went in or out. They had then defined their Obstacles and Options. They therefore learned for themselves what had to change in order to meet their serving targets and they had a clear Way Forward.

The originators of both the Inner Game method and the GROW method suggested that many individuals were struggling to achieve goals because they were not learning from experience and were not aware of the available knowledge that would help them.

Interestingly, this approach is consistent with Kolb's learning cycle – where each step of the process is vital, including reflection, and this active participation approach of doing vs being told what to do aids in the reflection step which is vital for growth.

G	Goal	The Goal is the end point, where the coachee wants to be. The goal must be defined in such a way that it is very clear to the coachee when they have achieved it.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do you want to achieve? • What is important to you right now? • What would you like to get from the next 30 minutes? • What areas do you want to work on? • Describe your perfect world • What do you want to achieve as a result of this session? • What will make you feel this time has been well spent?
R	Reality	The Current Reality is where the coachee is now. What are the issues, the challenges, how far are they away from their goal?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Where are you now in relation to your goal? • On a scale of 1-10 where are you? • What has contributed to your success so far? • What skills/knowledge/attributes do you have? • What progress have you made so far? • What is working well right now? • What is required of you?
O	Obstacles	There will be Obstacles stopping the coachee getting from where they are now to where they want to go. If there were no Obstacles the coachee would already have reached their goal.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do you feel is holding you back? • How long have these blockers been in place
	Options	Once Obstacles have been identified, the coachee needs to find ways of dealing with them if they are to make progress. These are the Options.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What are your options? • How have you tackled this/a similar situation before? • What could you do differently? • Who do you know who has encountered a similar situation? • Give me 5 options • If anything was possible what would you do? • What would your best friend /mother suggest? • What else?
W	Way Forward	The Options then need to be converted into action steps which will take the coachee to their goal. These are the Way Forward.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Which options work best for you? • What one small step are you going to take now? • What actions will you take? • When are you going to start? • Who will help you? • How will you know you have been successful? • How will you ensure that you do it? • On a scale of 1 -10 how committed /motivated are you to doing it?

Appendix B: Sphere of Influence

Appendix C: Character Strengths

Consider each strength in the table below and indicate if it is mostly like you, sometimes like you or not often like you.

Strength	Description	Mostly like me	Sometimes like me	Not often like me
Creativity	I like to think of new and better ways of doing things
Curiosity	I am always asking questions and love to discover new things
Judgment	I look at all sides of an issue to come up with the right answer
Love of learning	I love to learn new things
Wisdom	I am considered wise because I evaluate things from different perspectives
Bravery	I speak up for what is right, even if others do not agree with me
Perseverance	I finish what I start, even if it becomes difficult
Honesty	I speak the truth and I take responsibility for my feelings and behaviors
Zest	I live life as an adventure filled with excitement and energy
Love	I value the close relationships I have with others
Kindness	I enjoy helping others, even if I do not know them well
Social intelligence	I pay attention to the motives and feelings of others
Teamwork	I always do my share and I work hard for the success of my group
Fairness	I treat all people in a fair and just manner
Leadership	I am good at providing leadership and direction when I am with a group of people
Forgiveness	I am willing to forgive someone who has done something wrong
Humility	I am humble and let my actions speak more than my words

Prudence	I am careful about what I do and strive not to do things I might later regret
Self-control	I pay attention and am always in control of what I do and say
Appreciation of beauty and excellence	I appreciate the beautiful and wonderful things in life
Gratitude	I pay attention to the good things that happen to me and express my thanks
Hope	I believe that good things are coming to me now
Humor	I like to laugh, smile, and see the good in all situations
Spirituality	I have strong and coherent beliefs about the higher purpose and meaning of the universe.

Determine:

- What are your five most important strengths?
- What five strengths would you most like to develop?

(Adapted from embracecivility.org from material from the VIA Institute on Character <http://www.viacharter.org>)

Appendix D: Johari Window template

Word List:

- violent
- insecure
- hostile
- needy
- ignorant
- blasé
- embarrassed
- insensitive
- dispassionate
- inattentive
- intolerant
- aloof
- irresponsible
- selfish
- unimaginative
- irrational
- imperceptive
- loud
- self-satisfied
- over dramatic
- unreliable
- inflexible
- glum
- vulgar
- unhappy
- inane
- distant
- chaotic
- vacuous
- passive
- dull
- timid
- unhelpful
- brash
- childish
- impatient
- panicky
- smug
- predictable
- foolish
- cowardly
- simple
- withdrawn
- cynical
- boastful
- weak
- unethical
- rash
- callous
- humourless

References

Luft, J and Ingham, H 1955, 'The Johari window, a graphic model of interpersonal awareness', Proceedings of the western training laboratory in group development, University of California, Los Angeles.

Peterson, C and Seligman, M 2004, Character strengths and virtues: A handbook and classification, American Psychological Association, Washington, DC

Performance Consultants International nd, 'The GROW Model', <
<https://www.performanceconsultants.com/grow-model> > viewed October 2018

Recommended Readings

Go Put Your Strengths to Work by Marcus Buckingham

The Winners Bible

5 Dysfunctions of a Team – Patrick Lencioni

5 Temptations of a CEO – Patrick Lencioni

7 Habits of Highly Effective People – Steven Covey

Mindset: The New Psychology of Success – Carol S Dweck